CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney.

There is nothing more interesting in the game of bridge than a real playing problem and so many good hands go wrong simply because a player, rather than think for himself, will follow the beaten path.

The following hand presents a most unusual playing problem—not a difficult one—but before reading the solution, I am going to ask you to lay the cards out, study the hand carefully and decide how you would play it for six odd at spades.

Remember, if you are not careful, you will not make your contract.

The Bidding.

The bidding would be South one spade, West pass, North three hearts—a jump overcall. This is a game demand bid and requires partner to keep the bidding open until a game is arrived at. In response to the three hearts, South should bid three spades to show a solid spade suit. He need not be afraid that the bidding will die, as partner is forced to bid again.

North should now bid five spades. South will then show support in hearts by bidding six hearts, and North should take the contract to six spades.

The Play.

West would open either the eight of spades or a heart—perhaps the ten of hearts would be selected in the majority of cases. The trick would be won by South the declarer with the queen.

Would you lead the ace of hearts and discard either the queen of clubs or the ten of diamonds? If so, your small slam contract would be defeated. South does not know which finesse to take, but he does know that West is out of spades and also out of hearts, so the proper play would be the four of diamonds from dummy, and finesse the ten which West would win with the jack. And now you can see that West is helpless—he must lead either a club or diamond, either of which would be right into the declarer's ace queen—the other queen can be discarded on the good ace of hearts.

The reason the declarer should not cash his ace of hearts before taking the diamond finesse is because he does not know which suit to discard. By throwing West in the lead, he solves this problem very easily.

OBITUARY

PORTUGUESE LADY OF
WELL-KNOWN FAMILY

We regret to report the death of Mrs. Guilhermina Francisca dos Remedios Romano, who passed away at the age of 83 years, at her residence, No. 5, Austin Avenue, Kowloon, yesterday forenoon. The deceased was an outstanding member of the Portuguese community, and was the widow of the late Mr. Augustinho Guilhermo Romano, who for many years had been the Consul General for Portugal and Brazil in Hongkong. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. Jono Joaquim dos Remedios, who in the early days of the Colony took a leading part in commercial life here, being the senior partner of the merchant firm of J. J. dos Remedios and Company.

Mrs. Romano's father was amongst the earliest Portuguese settlers in the Colony, and was so confident of the growth and the commercial possibilities of Hongkong that he became a pioneer investor in landed property, being the first owner of the farm lot of Pokfulam, which has since been enlarged into a large tract of grazing ground now owned by the Dairy Farm Company.

The late Mr. Remedios was also a keen amateur horticulturist, and his taste for gardening was shared by his son-in-law, the late Mr. A. G. Romano, who helped to develop the farm lot at Pokfulam into an experimental garden for European vegetables and flowers.

By all residents Mr. and Mrs. Romano will be remembered as keen supporters of the Hongkong flower shows, and some of the finest exhibits at these annual functions, which in those days were the occasion of pleasant social gatherings, were their contributions.

As the wife of the Portuguese Consul General, Mrs. Romano, while the embodiment of modesty, played the part of an ideal hostess in their unique residence, then known as "Duart," at the junction of Arbuthnot and Caine Roads, just below the Catholic Cathedral in Glenageary. Her hospitality while lavish was unassuming. No guest at the luxurious consular residence left without a sense of pleasure and enjoyment.

The late Mr. Romano acted as Consular representative of Portugal in Hongkong for many years. He was elected President of the Club Lusitano, and many were the occasions that older residents recall of the important part which Mrs. Romano played on all occasions of social and national gatherings in the fine club building, when she entertained hundreds of guests.

After the death of her husband, the late Mrs. Romano retired into private life, devoting most of her time and private means to works of charity, and quiet benevolence which she dispensed unostentatiously for the benefit of her less favoured fellow beings. She had always a kind word for those in distress, and who had occasion to appeal to her for help, and she never let anyone, whether members of her own community or outside it, appeal to her in vain. Hers was truly a kind heart moved by a sentiment of benevolence and goodwill, which gained for her the admiration and respect of all who knew her in the heyday of her husband's prosperity.

Catholic charitable institutions of Hongkong lose in Mrs. Romano their best friend. She used to be a frequent visitor to the convents, in particular the Italian Convent, and at all functions in aid of the poor she was present, either to grace a stall at a bazaar or to dispense charity in a light way unbeknown to any except those who actually benefitted by her spirit of generosity. Her loss will be truly felt, and by none more than the poor whom she befriended in many more ways than one.

She leaves a younger sister to mourn her loss, Mrs. G. N. E. Machado, the mother-in-law of Mr. A. A. Alves, who is so well known in Hongkong. Three other

KELLER, KERN AND CO. WIN
$769 ACTION

In the Supreme Court yesterday, before the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice Wood, Messrs. Keller, Kern and Company, merchants, sued the Hind Provision Store, of Kowloon, for $769, balance due on milk sold and delivered.

Mr. F. C. E. Rendall of Russ and Company opened the case for the defendant. He explained that his client asked to be relieved of the milk because it appeared to be in a bad condition. In addition, it came in large tins and there were no labels to show that it was "Anchor" brand.

When plaintiff was cross-examined by Mr. G. S. Hugh-Jones, it was disclosed that the defence was a denial that the milk was tainted, and the production of the contract which did not stipulate any particular brand. Mr. Hugh-Jones claimed that the quality was admitted by the acceptance of the goods and the payment of instalments.

After a hearing lasting three hours, judgment was given for the plaintiffs for the full amount claimed, with costs.

TRIBUTES TO CHINA

COMENTS ON MR. SOONG'S DENIAL TO DEFAULT

London, Sept. 13.
Commenting on Mr. T. V. Soong's denial that China would default on the salt loans, The Times pays a tribute to China's efforts, during a period of especial difficulty, to maintain the service of external and secured loans, which has created a good impression in the city.
The Morning Post quoting Mr. Soong's plea that the Japanese authorities are withholding the salt revenue in Manchuria and thus impairing the ability of the National Government to meet its other commitments, says it is not surprising therefore, to note that while Chinese securities rallied after a fall, they closed lower for the day.—Reuter.

ANDREWS TO GIVE EXHIBITIONS.

TREAT FOR TENNIS FANS NEXT WEEK

Arrangements have been completed between the Hongkong L.T.A., and E. D. Andrews, the ex-New Zealand tennis champion, and International Club players, to appear in a series of exhibitions in Hongkong on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

Singles and doubles will be played, the prominent visitor having agreed to play two matches of each of the best of three sets.
The venue for the exhibitions has not yet been fixed, nor have the local players been selected, although it is fairly certain that S. A. Rumjahn and E. C. Fincher will meet Andrews in the singles, and Yew Man-Kit and Ho Ka-lau, last year's youthful inter-club winners, may be given an opportunity in the doubles.

Andrews, who is on a return visit to the East, is staying in Hongkong for about a fortnight, being the guest of Sir William Hornell. It is understood that to-day he leaves for Canton with E. C. Fincher and while there, they will engage local players in tennis matches.

INDIAN R.C. REPORT.

SUCCESSFUL YEARS WORK REVIEWED

The annual meeting of the Indian Recreation Club is to be held at 4.30 p.m. on September 18. The report is as follows:

The Club can look back with pride on its achievements during the season 1931-32. Creating a record the previous season by winning four Shields—"A" and "B" Divisions of the Hongkong Cricket League and "A" Division and Mixed Doubles of the Hongkong Tennis League—we repeated this performance, which is almost unique in the history of sport in the Colony.

To celebrate our achievements, an athletic meeting was held on 14th May, 1932. This function proved to be a great success both from the point of view of the competitors as well as the spectators. At the conclusion of the Meeting, our President, Mr. A. el Arculli, distributed the prizes, and Mrs. Lindsell, wife of Mr. R. E. Lindsell, the President of the Hongkong Lawn Tennis Association, very kindly presented to us the "A" Division and Mixed Doubles Shields.

Membership.—We closed the year with 1 honorary member, 4 life members, 26 associate members, 27 absent members, and 138 ordinary members, making a total of 198 as compared with last year's total of 194.

Deaths.—The Committee records with great regret the deaths during the season under review of the following Members:—Khan Sahib Nawab Khan, A.S.P., former Vice-President of the Club, who passed away in his homeland; Mr. N. M. Bux, a former Hon. Secretary, who died in July, and Mr. Ajit Singh, the son of one of our Vice-Presidents, Mr. Bishen Singh.

Finance.—The working account shows a net profit of $702.31 for the year.

The club made cricket history in the Colony by winning both the Senior and Junior shields for the second year in succession. To Messrs. A. A. Rumjahn and M. R. Abbas, Captains of the 1st XI and 2nd XI respectively, and members of the teams, the Club offers its congratulations, and looks forward to another successful season next winter. Of the 7 League matches played, the Senior Team won five and drew two, thus going through the League season without a defeat. The Juniors played in 10 League games, winning 8, drawing one and losing one. In the 1st XI, Mr. F. D. Pereira once again headed the League Batting Averages with an aggregate of 221 runs, giving him an average of 36.83 runs per innings. Mr. A. el Arculli was very close on his heels with an average of 36. Mr. Madar also distinguished himself in the batting department, heading the averages with 10 wickets for 77 runs, captured in 32.4 overs, 10 of which were maiden ones. Mr. A. R. Minu, in 79.2 overs, of which 22 were maiden ones, claimed 26 wickets for 242 runs, his average being 9.3 runs for each wicket. In the 2nd XI, Mr. F. D. Pereira was the leading bowler, with 10 wickets for 111 runs, his average being 11.1 runs per wicket. Messrs. A. M. Rumjahn and A. R. Minu followed respectively, with Mr. F. M. el Arculli second in both departments.

Interpreters.—In the inter-club cricket match between Hongkong and Shanghai last November, Mr. F. D. Pereira was chosen to represent Hongkong. Although he was not successful in bowling, he made a gallant effort to save the side during Hongkong's second innings, hitting up 20 runs which included a six, in quick time. When the last Hongkong team went up to Shanghai in May, to members of the Club, Messrs. A. H. Madar and A. R. Minu travelled with it. The part they played in the Hongkong victory is already well-known, and needs no repetition here. The Club is proud of them all.

Sunday Cricket.

Sunday League.—The Sunday Cricket League again proved very successful, being a great encouragement to the beginners most of whom took part in the competition. Seven teams participated, the "Malays" winning the Shield for the first time.

Tennis.—We repeated our performance of 1930-31 by winning both the "A" Division and the Mixed Doubles Shields. These two teams went through the season without a defeat. The "B" and "C" Divisions, however, were not very successful.

The Committee take this opportunity of congratulating Messrs. S. A. Rumjahn and H. D. Rumjahn for their triumph in the Open Tennis Tournament held in the early part of 1932. The former won the Open Singles Championship for the second time in his career, and carried off the Doubles Trophy with Mr. H. D. Rumjahn for the eighth consecutive year.

Lawn Bowls.—We propose to carry out certain improvements to our green by removing it from its present site to a position nearer the pavilion. We hope that with these improvements more members will take up the game and enter a team for the League next year.

Ping Pong.—The Club again entered a team in the Junior Ping Pong League, and once more occupied the bottom of the table. With more practice, we should be able to do better.

Ground.—The ground has been in a fairly good condition throughout the year. Improvements are contemplated for the cricket pitch, which we hope will be in a better condition than before.

Social Side.—Teas and Dinners.—During the year under review, two farewell parties were organized, one to Khan Sahib Nawab Khan and the other to Mr. H. T. Barma. In honour of the Club's Cricket interpreters, we held two dinners, the first of which Messrs. S. R. Zermani and F. D. Pereira were guests, and the second Messrs. R. M. Omar (Hon. Sports Secretary), A. Rumjahn, A. A. R. and H. D. Rumjahn were also

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

THAT TOUCH OF SILVER.

The last few years have seen a definite departure from the cult of the old to the development of the essentially modern in decoration and furnishing. Now, to match this, modern designs in silver—table silver, bowls, tea and coffee sets, cigarette boxes, inkstands, beakers, and cups—have been produced.

Many examples of this work of our modern craftsmen were shown at a remarkably interesting exhibition held recently at the Goldsmiths and Silversmiths Company, 112, Regent-street.

Perhaps the most fascinating exhibit from a woman's point of view was a table arranged for dinner. Each place was set with a different design in spoons, forks and knives. These designs have come into being within the last few months.

The table itself was a new design treated with gold leaf overlaid with plate-glass inlaid. The modern silver rose-bowl, sets for salt, pepper and mustard, and the forks and spoons caught the reflection of the gold and the two blended in a harmony of light that was most charming.

Almost all the new spoons, forks and knives had very long handles. The blades of the knives were much shorter than in the old patterns.

Another new idea was the adaptation of the handles of the knives to match exactly the handles of the spoons and forks.

Among the exhibits were some fine silver and gold work that are likely to be of great future historic interest. There was a silver bowl belonging to Princess Elizabeth. It had ivory handles, and the lid had a handle of gold and ivory made in the shape of a crown. The silver key designed by the architects of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre and used by the Prince of Wales for the opening, was loaned by the Prince for the Exhibition.

VENETIA IN EXCHANGE.

This new ermine capelet, short in front and ending in points below the waist in the back, leaves one wondering whether the wearer is coming or going. The collar, which fastens in the back, comes up high under the chin. It was worn with a cotton evening gown.

For late summer wear rough weave rayon which uses a checked drop-stitch effect is as cool as it is practical.

The skirt flares slightly and the bodice is characterized by the new drop shoulder, which features a V-shaped neck. A belt of twisted cord sets off a V-shaped neck. Not only the dress, but the bag, too, is of a synthetic material. Soft, pliable and glistening, it is made of cellophane.

FIGURE QUESTIONS.

By Ann Moresby.

Features are not easy things to alter. You need a deep purse, a strong faith in plastic surgery, and a fixed determination to improve upon nature before you do anything about them.

Although perfect proportions are admittedly very rare indeed, the figure which cannot possibly be improved by one reasonable process or another is also very rare.

There are hundreds of ways by means of which you can take off weight, if necessary. Some of them are guaranteed to take years off your life as well (though not by the people who advise them). But there are several perfectly sound methods of weight reduction which also improve the general health considerably.

The too-thin and woody type of figure is also far more susceptible to improvement than its owner is usually ready to believe.

In a great many cases both the too thin and the too fat owe their disabilities to the same cause, a digestive apparatus which is not doing its work properly. When this is put right the rest is comparatively easy.

Skilled manipulative massage works wonders, and after a course of this the patient should be able to keep well and increase her figure loveliness by a reasonable though not too rigid diet, and reasonable though not too strenuous exercise.

Importance of Digestion.

There are several systems of exercise, and the question of which to choose depends partly upon the kind of faults it is desirable to correct and partly upon the kind of temperament possessed by the patient.

People who never succeed in doing exercises regularly and all by themselves, and who are not noted for their abounding energy will find the system, by which someone else does all the exercise, ideal.

The patient lies on rugs and cushions while trained assistants exercise her legs, and, if necessary, arms. The reduction in inches, produced by a course of these treatments is really astonishing, and by no means the least valuable thing about them is that they do not upset the heart or the blood pressure.

For the more energetic there are innumerable exercises from which to choose the ones she is most in need of.

Exercise Better than Diet.

It is nearly always wise to have a few lessons first, for purposes of diagnosis and observation, and because many people learn more in half an hour's demonstration than by the reading of many books.

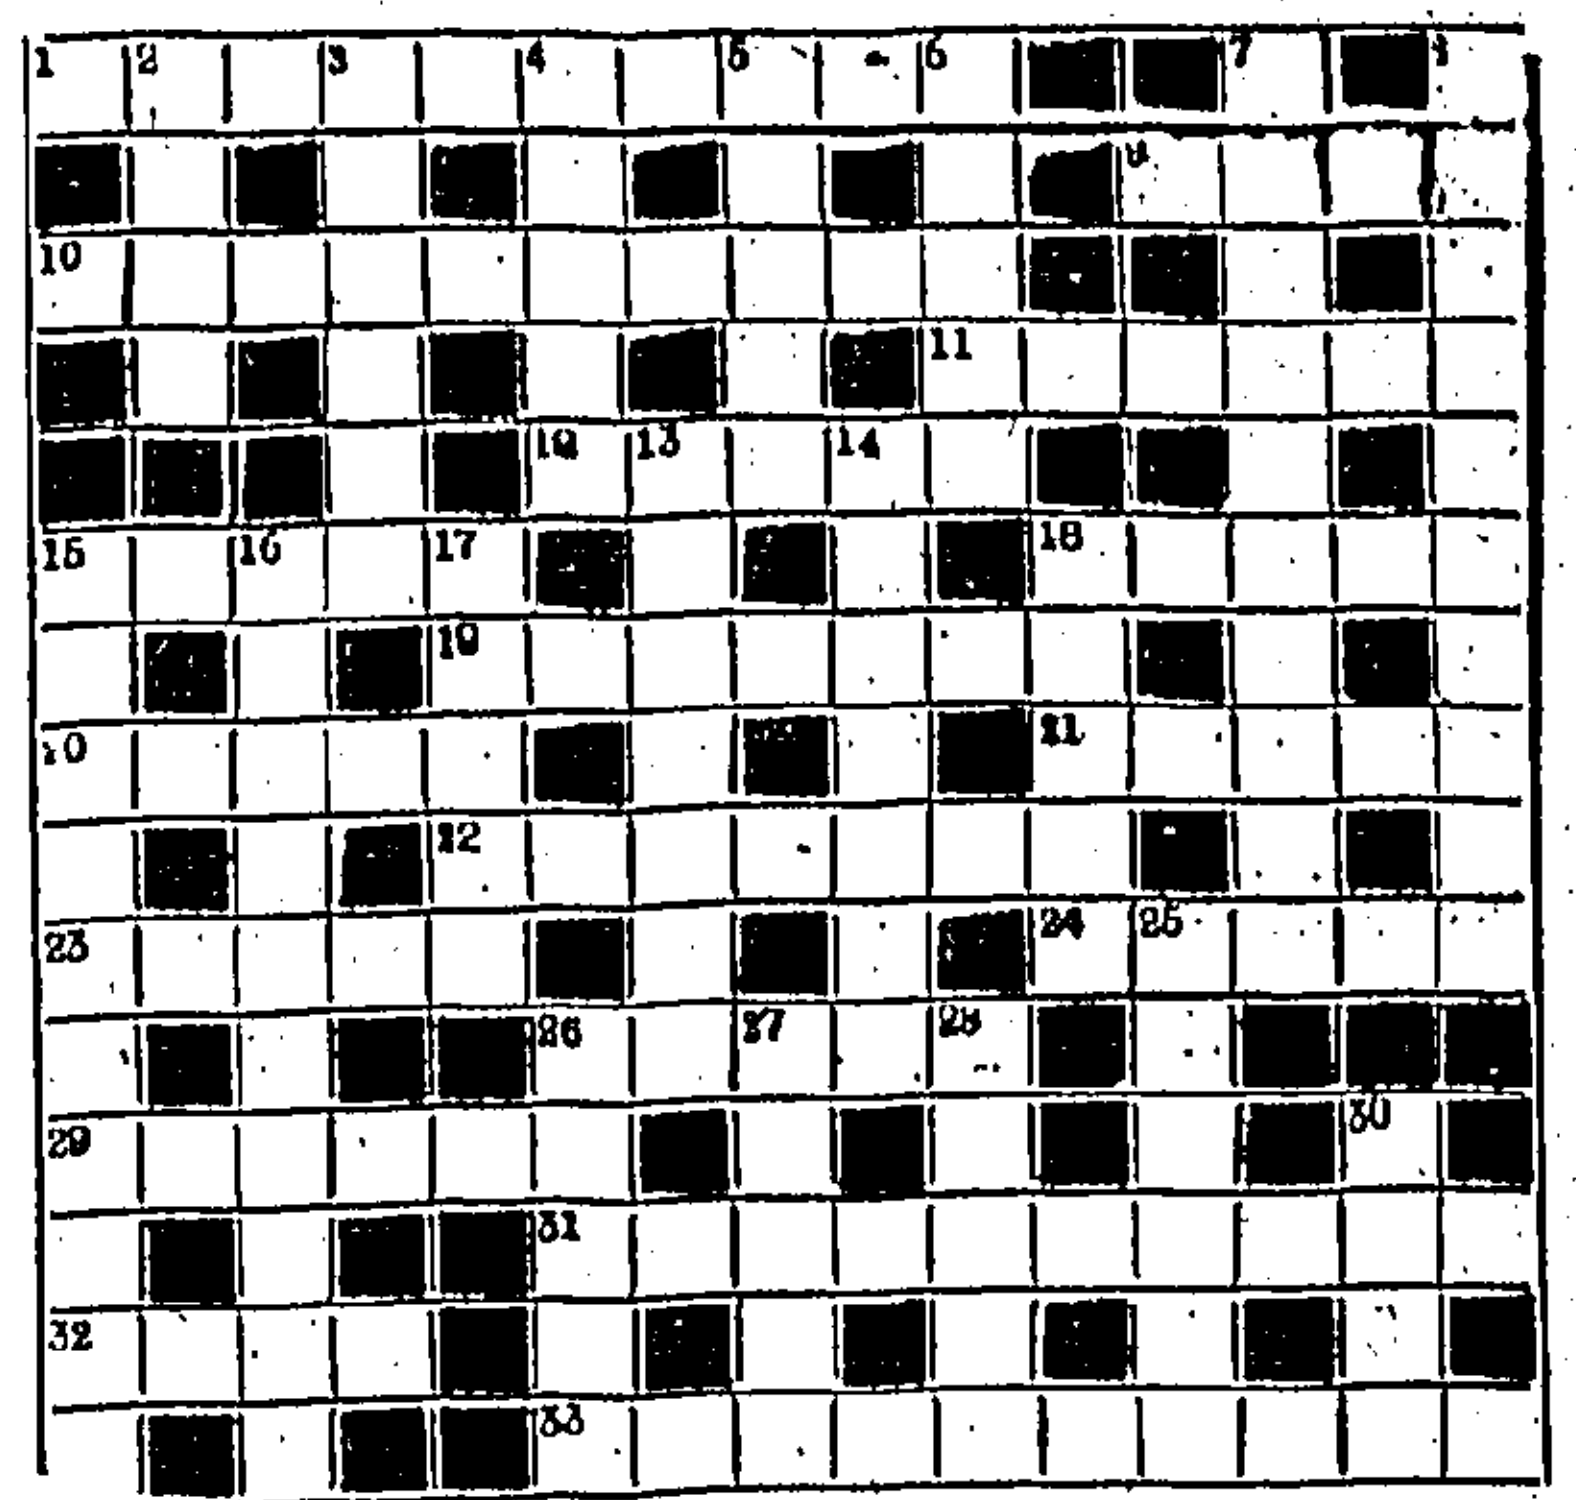

A reasonable diet which is adapted to individual needs does no one any harm, and most people a great deal of good. But diet without exercise is neither so quick nor so agreeable in its results. Starvation diets are often dangerous, and invariably bad for the disposition. Also, they nearly always reduce the face and the neck to haggardness before they begin to affect the body.

Properly applied exercise on the other hand, reduces where you want it to reduce, instead of where you don't, and this whether you do it yourself or have it done for you.

AEROPLANE LIGHTER.

A silver model of an aeroplane provides an excellent and decorative cigarette lighter for standing on a table. The lighter is worked by electricity, and one has only to twist the small propeller of the plane to produce a flame by which to light a cigarette.

GANDHI'S LATEST

Gandhi's sincerity notwithstanding, few disinterested observers will find themselves in sympathy with the methods which he adopts in attempts to get his own way. His latest plan, to "fast unto death," in the hope that the British Government may abandon or modify its plans for a settlement of the communal problem, is such as one might expect from this strangely unbalanced personality. It is, indeed, pathetic. In effect, Gandhi seeks to dictate to the Government by the process of making a martyr of himself: in the one balance he places his life; in the other, the proposals which have been devised to settle an issue which the Indians themselves failed to adjust. No doubt he hopes in this way provided his fasting ends fatally, to lay the blame for his death at the doors of the British Government. Needless to say, no Government could agree to bargain with anyone on such terms. If the worst comes to the worst, then Gandhi will have only himself to blame for deliberately choosing such a fantastic method of seeking to impose his will on the Government.

There is no occasion at the moment to investigate the point as to whether the Government's solution of the communal problem is or is not a remedy for the crushing degradation under which the Depressed Classes exist; except to observe that the British plan is specifically devised to safeguard their rights and interests and to give them a direct voice in the government of the country. Gandhi may have his own ideas on the method chosen by the British Government for alleviating the lot of the "Untouchables," but neither he nor anyone else can doubt British sincerity on behalf of a section of the community which has so long occupied a position of inferiority in the Indian caste system. The main fact to be kept failure of the Indians themselves to solve this complex communal issue which has made it necessary for the British Government to bring forward its own proposals. In this connexion, it must be recalled that Gandhi himself, at the Round Table Conference and since, has deliberately refused to compromise with the Depressed Classes. With remarkable patience and restraint, the British Government endeavoured to follow the policy of inducing India to settle her own dispute, but the irreconcilables, prominent amongst whom has been Gandhi himself, would have none of it. All through the piece, Gandhi has studiously and perversely repudiated every suggestion put forward by the British and Indian Governments, and now he girds at the offered solution of an entanglement which is largely his own creation. Having led India into an almost inextricable maze of inconsequence, he calmly turns round and blames the British for not leading him out of it in the precise manner which he would like. In circumstances such as these, despite the tragic nature of his latest threat, it is difficult to feel any sympathy for the Mahatma, who has brought so much trouble on his own head.

Gandhi and his followers have never tired of suggesting a sinister policy on the part of Britain to "divide and rule" in India. It has long since been clear, however, that the division is no Machiavellian creation, but a thing innate in Indian society. The breakdown of the Round Table Conference was only a further proof of that fact. Faced with what appeared to be an almost insoluble problem, Britain has intervened and taken the middle course of moderation and conciliation. Almost inevitably, no-one is really satisfied, but, as we have remarked, Britain's bona fides are beyond question. Whatever adjustments may be necessary to meet reasonable objections, there can at any rate be no question of permitting Gandhi, by fanciful methods of his own choosing, to dictate the Government's policies.

Translations, Please!

Ambitious people—people who like to do things that have never been done before—should be grateful for the continued existence of Shrewsbury School and its motto, to which attention has just been drawn by the recent anniversary celebrations. It is becoming increasingly difficult to accomplish any feat that has not been already achieved by someone or other, whether in exploration, sports or flight. But one of those rare remaining spurs to the ambition to do something different is provided by Shrewsbury School. And this particular feat has the merit of requiring no elaborate apparatus—not even a cricket bat, certainly nothing like an airplane. It can be done in an armchair—that is, if it can be done at all. In fact, all that the searcher after enduring fame has to do is to translate the motto of the school. It is a short motto; it is Latin, which large numbers of people understand almost as well as they understand English; and every one of its five words—"Intus si recte, ne labora"—is of perfectly definite and simple meaning. What each of these words means separately a child who is hardly through his first grammar could tell without difficulty; but what they mean when put together has baffled the ingenuity of succeeding generations of scholars. No one, as The Times, has pointed out, has ever been able to translate them satisfactorily or with certainty. From time to time, of course, suggestions have been put forward as to what the motto can mean. One version runs, "If thou art upright within, vex not thyself." Another, on a slightly less exalted note, is "If you enjoy your food, don't worry." A third seems still less suitable to a school, for it reads, "Once inside these walls, you need do no work." But none of these is really satisfactory. The world is still waiting for the perfect translation.

DAY BY DAY

NO MATTER WHETHER YOU BE PROTESTANT OR CATHOLIC, YOU ARE A CHRISTIAN SO LONG AS YOU BELIEVE IN AND PRACTICE THE TEACHINGS OF CHRIST.

The Empress of Canada is due here from Shanghai on Friday at 10 a.m.

The Sixth Annual General Meeting of the Reel Club is advertised to take place at the Helena May Institute on Monday, September 19, at 5.15 p.m.

Minor injuries were received by Lok Sul-man, an engineer of the steam launch Lam Cheong Wan, when a steam pipe burst on board yesterday whilst the launch was lying off Shamshuipo.

The speaker for the next meeting of the Y. M. C. A. of Hongkong, on Thursday, the 15th, at Lane Crawford's will be the Rev. G. T. Waldegrave, M.A., who will give a talk on "The Boy Scouts of Hongkong".

During a scuffle in Chinese Street, at 3 o'clock this morning, with a man whom he was trying to arrest as a suspicious character, Constable Kwong Sau received a wound on the shoulder inflicted with a chopper which the man was carrying. The injury, however, was not serious, although the constable was taken to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment.

At the fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board held yesterday, the business transacted was purely of a formal nature. Mr. G. R. Sayer, the President, was in the chair, and others present were the Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson, Vice-President, Dr. G. W. Pope, M. O. H., Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, Dr. K. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. Li Shu-fan, Mr. C. Champlin, Mr. J. H. Gelling, Secretary, and Mr. Ng Mui-kui, Assistant Secretary.

During the week ended Saturday, September 10, five cases of Cholera with four deaths, (one imported) were reported. Of the cholera cases two were from Victoria and three from Kowloon. There were also three cases of typhoid with one death, one case of paratyphoid and one death, and three cases of meningitis with three deaths (one imported). Deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis during the week totalled sixty. On Monday there was a clean bill of health.

An interesting and instructive talk on "Travelling through Szechuen" was given by Professor L. Forster, of the University of Hongkong, at the Rotary Club dinner yesterday. The Hon. Mr. S. W. Tso presided. Rotarian T. B. Wilson, who recently returned from the Rotarian Conference at Seattle, at which he represented Hongkong, was welcomed back by the chairman. Mr. Wilson said he had done his best at the conference to convince the delegates from all parts of the world that Hongkong was not a Chinese city, but he did not have much success!

LOST IN THE ALPHABETICAL WILDS

(By Edward Kelly, K.B., Failed B.A. (Oxon), H2So4.)

Our American friend came to catch the atmosphere of the East. We took him immediately to the Central Market. He was also interested in Chinese still life, but after he had seen the Vehicular Ferry, Morrison Hill, the Shing Mun dam and other monuments to Governmental activity, we were hard pressed for other diversions. We had taken him for all the motor-rides in the Colony, and he said he enjoyed both of them and it was only when our ingenuity and his money had run out that he accompanied us to a short business visit to Seven and Sixpenny Hill.

"Yes," we said, in answer to his interrogatively raised eyebrow. "It is a funny name. 'Tis a relic of the old days when Queen's Road was paved with hotels. A trip from the old Coronet Theatre to Military H. Q. would cost 7s. 6d., gin being 9d. in those days. We are now passing the only hotel that remains."

"Why?" was his only reply. A belted and spurred myrmidon haled us at the foot of the hill. "We want to know," we began, "if it is true that the K.O.S.B. will replace either the S.W.B. or the A. and S.H."

"R" he replied. "See the D.A.A. & Q.M.G." Up the hill, bear to the left, pick up an interpreter and ask the A. & S. H. orderly."

A black notice board stands halfway up Seven and Sixpenny Hill. "Eurucka," exclaimed our American friend. "That was Archimedes, not Euclid," we replied, "and anyhow, 'tis not an algebraic problem: 'tis a directory of the H. Q. for the information of the general public. Or so we were told."

Such is regimental alacrity that we had smoked only half of our tin of Capstan magnams before the great man appeared.

"Are you the D.A.A. and Q.M.G.?" we began. "We want to know if the K.O.S.B. will replace either the S.W.B. or the A. and S.H." "R," he replied. "The man you want is the O.I.C. (2) of S. and T."

We were used to it by this, and ran the O.I.C. (2) of S. and T. to earth in half an hour. "The D.A.A. and Q.M.G. said you could tell us if the K.O.S.B. etc.," we repeated.

"R" he replied. "The man you want is the A.F.A. and A.L.A. to the D. of the P.U.S. of S. for W." "Call him wheelbarrow," for short," our American friend suggested.

"Wheelbarrow" was most obliging. "The man you want is the— But we stopped him.

"Tell us," we said. "Is this confined only to the English alphabet? If it is, you've got only six of the 26 letters left, but if you're going to bring in Russian, we quit."

By this time we'd entered into the spirit of the game, and we were just brushing up our table-dé-marche brand of French, when we arrived at the kill, who did his best to hide his title beneath a mass of alphabetical camouflage. He, at least, did admit that he was acquainted with the peculiarities of the K.O.S.B. "But," he said, "This is where I must give the proverbial imitation of an oyster." "Well," we replied. "You certainly have the looks on your side." "Which," we thought afterwards, was rather cruel, as he might easily have referred us to the K.C.C., the K.B.S.F.P.A., or even the Y.M.C.A., and by this time we'd have been none the wiser.

VOLUNTEERS OF THE AIR

By JOHN GILLAM.

Squadrons of the Auxiliary Air Force are now in camp at Home intensively training with the Regulars, in co-operation with the Divisions of the Territorial Army. Often, in their mock warfare, the pilots fly by day right over the very buildings in which they work in civilian life. The following article describes the training to which these volunteers of the air have subjected themselves.

We are flying through a dark night, high above fields and villages, engrossed in the reading of air speed and wind direction instruments.

We approach our target, a large factory on the outskirts of a country town. Our pilot adjusts direction as the air gunner calls instructions through the speaking tube. A bomb is released; a few seconds later a black spot halts near our objective.

"Once more, please," says the instructor, and I jump clear of the machine—six feet to the floor below.

It is the headquarters of an Auxiliary Air Force Bombing Squadron. We are in a darkened room, and stretched taut across the floor is a white canvas sheet, on to which there is focussed, through a lens piercing the ceiling, a slowly moving panorama of the countryside.

BOMBING PRACTICE

Against the wall there is placed a stand of two tiers, representing a bombing aeroplane. On the lower tier sits the officer, controlling by his rudder the mechanism, fixed in the room above, which moves the mosaic of photographic plates at will. Above him is the air gunner, with his instruments at hand and beside him a glass plate silhouetting the shadow of a fixed black spot—the bomb. According to the reading of the instruments, set beforehand at the instructor's decision, the air gunner guides the pilot on the make-believe flight.

I leave them at their efforts towards a direct hit.

At the far end of the drill hall a group is assembled around an uncompleted Wapiti, equipped with its 400-h.p. Jupiter engine, engaged in practice at rigging.

In the fitters' room, mechanics, at their benches and lathes, are assembling engines. In the armoury adjoining the make-up of machine guns and bombs is being thoroughly studied.

An N.C.O. now rounds everybody up for parade in the drill hall. The sharp command of "Fall in!" from the sergeant-major instantly transforms the scene to a parade of four flights, each of two ranks. As the adjutant and the officer taking the parade appear they click heels to immobility on the command "Attention!" and are marched smartly to and fro in various formations. Then they disarms for the lighter side of the evening, a game of cards, or a committee meeting to discuss plans for a coming dance or concert.

To-morrow, with the exception of the adjutant, his assistant, and the sergeant-major, and a few special instructors (all Regulars), they will be back in their various walks of civilian life; the men in factories, engineering works, stores, banks, offices; the officers in the Law Courts, professional or business offices, or at the daily round of medical practice.

During the summer, evenings are reserved for practice flying. In the hangars of the three auxiliary squadrons at the aerodrome mechanics are overhauling aeroplanes. Outside the propellers of machines grouped in flights are gently ticking over. They taxi to position, assisted by an airman holding each wing tip, for the wind is a trifle bumpy, and rise with uniform grace in a steep ascent, each machine with its crew of pilot and air gunner. A new officer is taken up in an Avro for early lessons in flying.

I go to the camera obscura hut of two rooms. One is equipped with wireless; the other darkened, with a camera lens fixed in the roof, focusing upwards, and embracing a wide range. On a cross-lined chart, spread wide over a table, I see the outline of a machine moving over its squares. It is picked up on the wireless; a pencilled line is marked, tracing the path of the aircraft, and instruments calculate where the bomb would have dropped.

BACK TO WORK

CHANCE FOR NEW ZEALAND

TRADE OPENINGS IN HONGKONG

That if New Zealand producers would take more notice of Chinese requirements, and label their goods in an attractive fashion as the Canadian and American exporters, they would find a ready market awaiting them in the East, was the opinion expressed by Mr. A. McKirdy, formerly of the Taikoo Sugar Refinery, Hongkong, in the course of a chat with a representative of The Press, of Christchurch, New Zealand, recently.

Mr. McKirdy is spending a few weeks of leisure in New Zealand, visiting old friends, but while in Wellington he met members of a syndicate who purpose opening up a tinned goods business with Hongkong and Shanghai, and he intends to give them all the assistance possible.

EXCELLENT CHANCE.

"During my recent stay in Wellington I was interviewed by representatives of a syndicate known as the Eastern Trade Development Company, which purpose opening up offices in Hongkong and Shanghai," said Mr. McKirdy. "It looks as if they mean business, and their intention is to export tinned meat and fruits, butter, and other things. I have been over the big stores in Hongkong, and, while I saw large quantities of Australian and American tinned goods, there appeared to be nothing from New Zealand. There is no reason why New Zealand should not be represented. The American and Canadian labels are very attractive, and it only remains for New Zealand to fall into line in this respect."

"Actually New Zealand seems to be waking up to the fact that there are great possibilities in China for her tinned goods. From what I have seen, the Dominion has an excellent opportunity awaiting it in Hongkong and Shanghai," he said.

AUSTRALIA AND CHINA.

The natives of China were the hardest working natives in the world, said Mr. McKirdy, and their word was their bond. For Hongkong he has the greatest admiration, and the pride in the city of his adoption has not diminished since he retired from the sugar refinery trade there. The question of Hongkong as a likely market for New Zealand goods was well worthy of investigation, he said.

On the way to Australia he travelled with two Australian business men who had been in Hongkong for the purpose of developing trade there, and they had made what they considered a very good connexion in the city. One man, who dealt in flour, was well satisfied with the result of his trip, and was of opinion that good business would be done, provided his firm would make certain alterations to suit the new consumers. For instance, the Chinese liked to have their flour marked with the characters of his own language.

SHIPPING DIFFICULTIES.

One difficulty which the Australians met on their trip was that of shipping, there not being at the time, sufficient tonnage to carry all the goods that Australia could export to China. Again, if the Chinese and Japanese were to come to a complete agreement, Japanese goods would come back into the Chinese market, and the Japanese could undersell anyone else on account of their low costs of production. However, New Zealand and Australia should be able to flood a market for goods that were not exported by Japan, and Japan also needed those goods—meat and tinned foods, for instance.

The present was the time to open up potential markets and what was needed mainly was high-class salesmanship. His advice was for New Zealand producers to get into touch with the Hongkong Dairy Farm Co. Ltd. Storage representatives.

Mr. McKirdy is leaving Sydney for China on September 24th.

Hundredth Victory of the Season

New York, Sept. 13. New York Yankees to-day won the American League pennant by defeating Cleveland by nine runs to three. It was their hundredth victory of the season as against forty-three defeats and although eleven matches remain on their fixture list, they can afford to lose every one of them and still finish above their nearest rivals, last year's champions, the Athletics.

McCarthy, the manager of the Yankees, is the first manager to win both major league pennants. He carried the Chicago Cubs to victory in the National League when he was their manager in 1929.

It is the seventh occasion since the war that the Yankees have won the American League pennant. In the National to-day, Pittsburgh got a shock, being blanked by Boston, for whom Brandt was pitching. Berger hit for the circuit and then another Urbanki home run completed their discomfiture.

Brooklyn scored a double victory over the Cards, the first taking them into innings, while home runs by Hartnett, Root and Moore failed to give Chicago more than one game in their double header with the Giants.

Other home run hitters were Klein (Phillies), Campbell (St. Louis Browns) and Johnson (Boston Red Sox).

RUSSIA IN DIFFICULTIES

A NEW ECONOMIC POLICY?

OFFICIAL DENIALS

Lazar Kaganovitch, a member of the all-powerful Politburo and one of Stalin's closest lieutenants, has insisted in a speech at Moscow that the recent decrees extending private trading privileges to the peasantry and artisan groups do not constitute an alteration in the Communist Party's policies. M. Kaganovitch is evidently striving to refute a widespread belief here that the Kremlin has embarked upon a new road of compromises with capitalism. He ridiculed this notion, quoting from party resolutions of years ago to prove that the recent decrees were merely the continuation of existent policies.

The conviction of many Communists that the Soviet regime is inaugurating a "New Deal," or new economic policy, M. Kaganovitch branded as "simply ridiculous." Recently the Commissar of Agriculture, Jacob Yakovlev, similarly explained that, despite seeming innovations, the Government was adhering to its previous line.

Nevertheless, the belief persists that the Kremlin, under the pressure of industrial and agricultural difficulties, is increasingly providing more scope for private initiative, and deliberately stimulating the instinct for private profit, of which theoretically it is the sworn enemy. All branches of national life reveal the tendency to emphasise again individualism as against collective activity.

Parallel with the extension of private markets there is the revision of university and lower school curricula to provide more space for purely cultural non-propagandist subjects. There is a move to humanise theatre and film output by permitting comedy and human interest instead of the exclusively propagandist themes heretofore used. A strong effort is under way to reform the judicial system with the purpose of protecting individuals against arbitrary officialdom.

Thus all along the line there seems a definite tendency to encourage individuality, which until now has been submerged by collectivity.

MARKED FALL IN SILVER

A sharp drop in silver prices in London was partially reflected in the value of the Hongkong dollar this morning, the rate falling 1/8th to 1s. 3/7th. The undertone of the local market is still easy, with the outlook uncertain.

In London, silver dropped a half-penny. China and India sold, and speculators bought. After the official fixing, the market was uncertain. It was considered that the fall was overdone, and America bought at the close.

New York reports silver down an eighth.

TWO MEN ASSAULT WOMAN

An attack by two men on a woman led to the latter receiving serious injuries at the junction of Saikung Road and Customs Pass, Kowloon City, last night.

It is stated that the cause of the trouble was a dispute over a concubine, the outcome being that the two men assaulted the woman with a sharp instrument. She received wounds to both forearms, stomach and shoulder.

The victim of the attack was a married woman named Tsoi Ng, 33, a resident of Sai Yeung Choi Street, Mongkok. In a statement to the police she says that while travelling on a bus to Kowloon City she observed two unknown Chinese cycling her suspiciously. When she got out from the bus and while passing Saigon Road she was attacked, it is alleged, by one of the two men with a dagger or knife. She raised an alarm and when discovered by pedestrians and police afterwards she was lying in a pool of blood. A small sum of money in her possession had not been touched.

The Empress of Japan arrived at Vancouver yesterday at 3 p.m.

WOMAN'S RIGHT TO CHANGE HER MIND

EVEN ON THE BENCH

"We Bristol Magistrates have been pilloried on account of our leniency in dealing with cases of dangerous driving. We have had letters written to us on the subject and we are determined to stop this," declared Mrs. L. M. Pheasey, a Magistrate, when a fine of £20 was imposed at Bristol Police Court on Charles Edward Lemon, of Gillingham, Kent, for dangerous driving.

When she was reminded by the clerk that it was the heaviest penalty yet imposed in that Court for a similar first offence, Mrs. Pheasey remarked:

"A fine of £5 might easily be paid by a motorist like the defendant, whereas £20 might not be so easily raised and would be remembered in the future and act as a deterrent."

Mrs. Pheasey, however, eventually agreed with the Chairman to reduce the fine to £5 and costs.

MAJOR HESELTINE'S SUICIDE

BROTHER AND HIS FINANCES

How Major Godfrey Heseltinge, aged sixty-one, was found shot dead in a summer house at his home, The Hill, Lutterworth, Leicestershire, was described at the inquest. Major Heseltinge was a well-known polo player and Master of Walhampton Bassett Hounds.

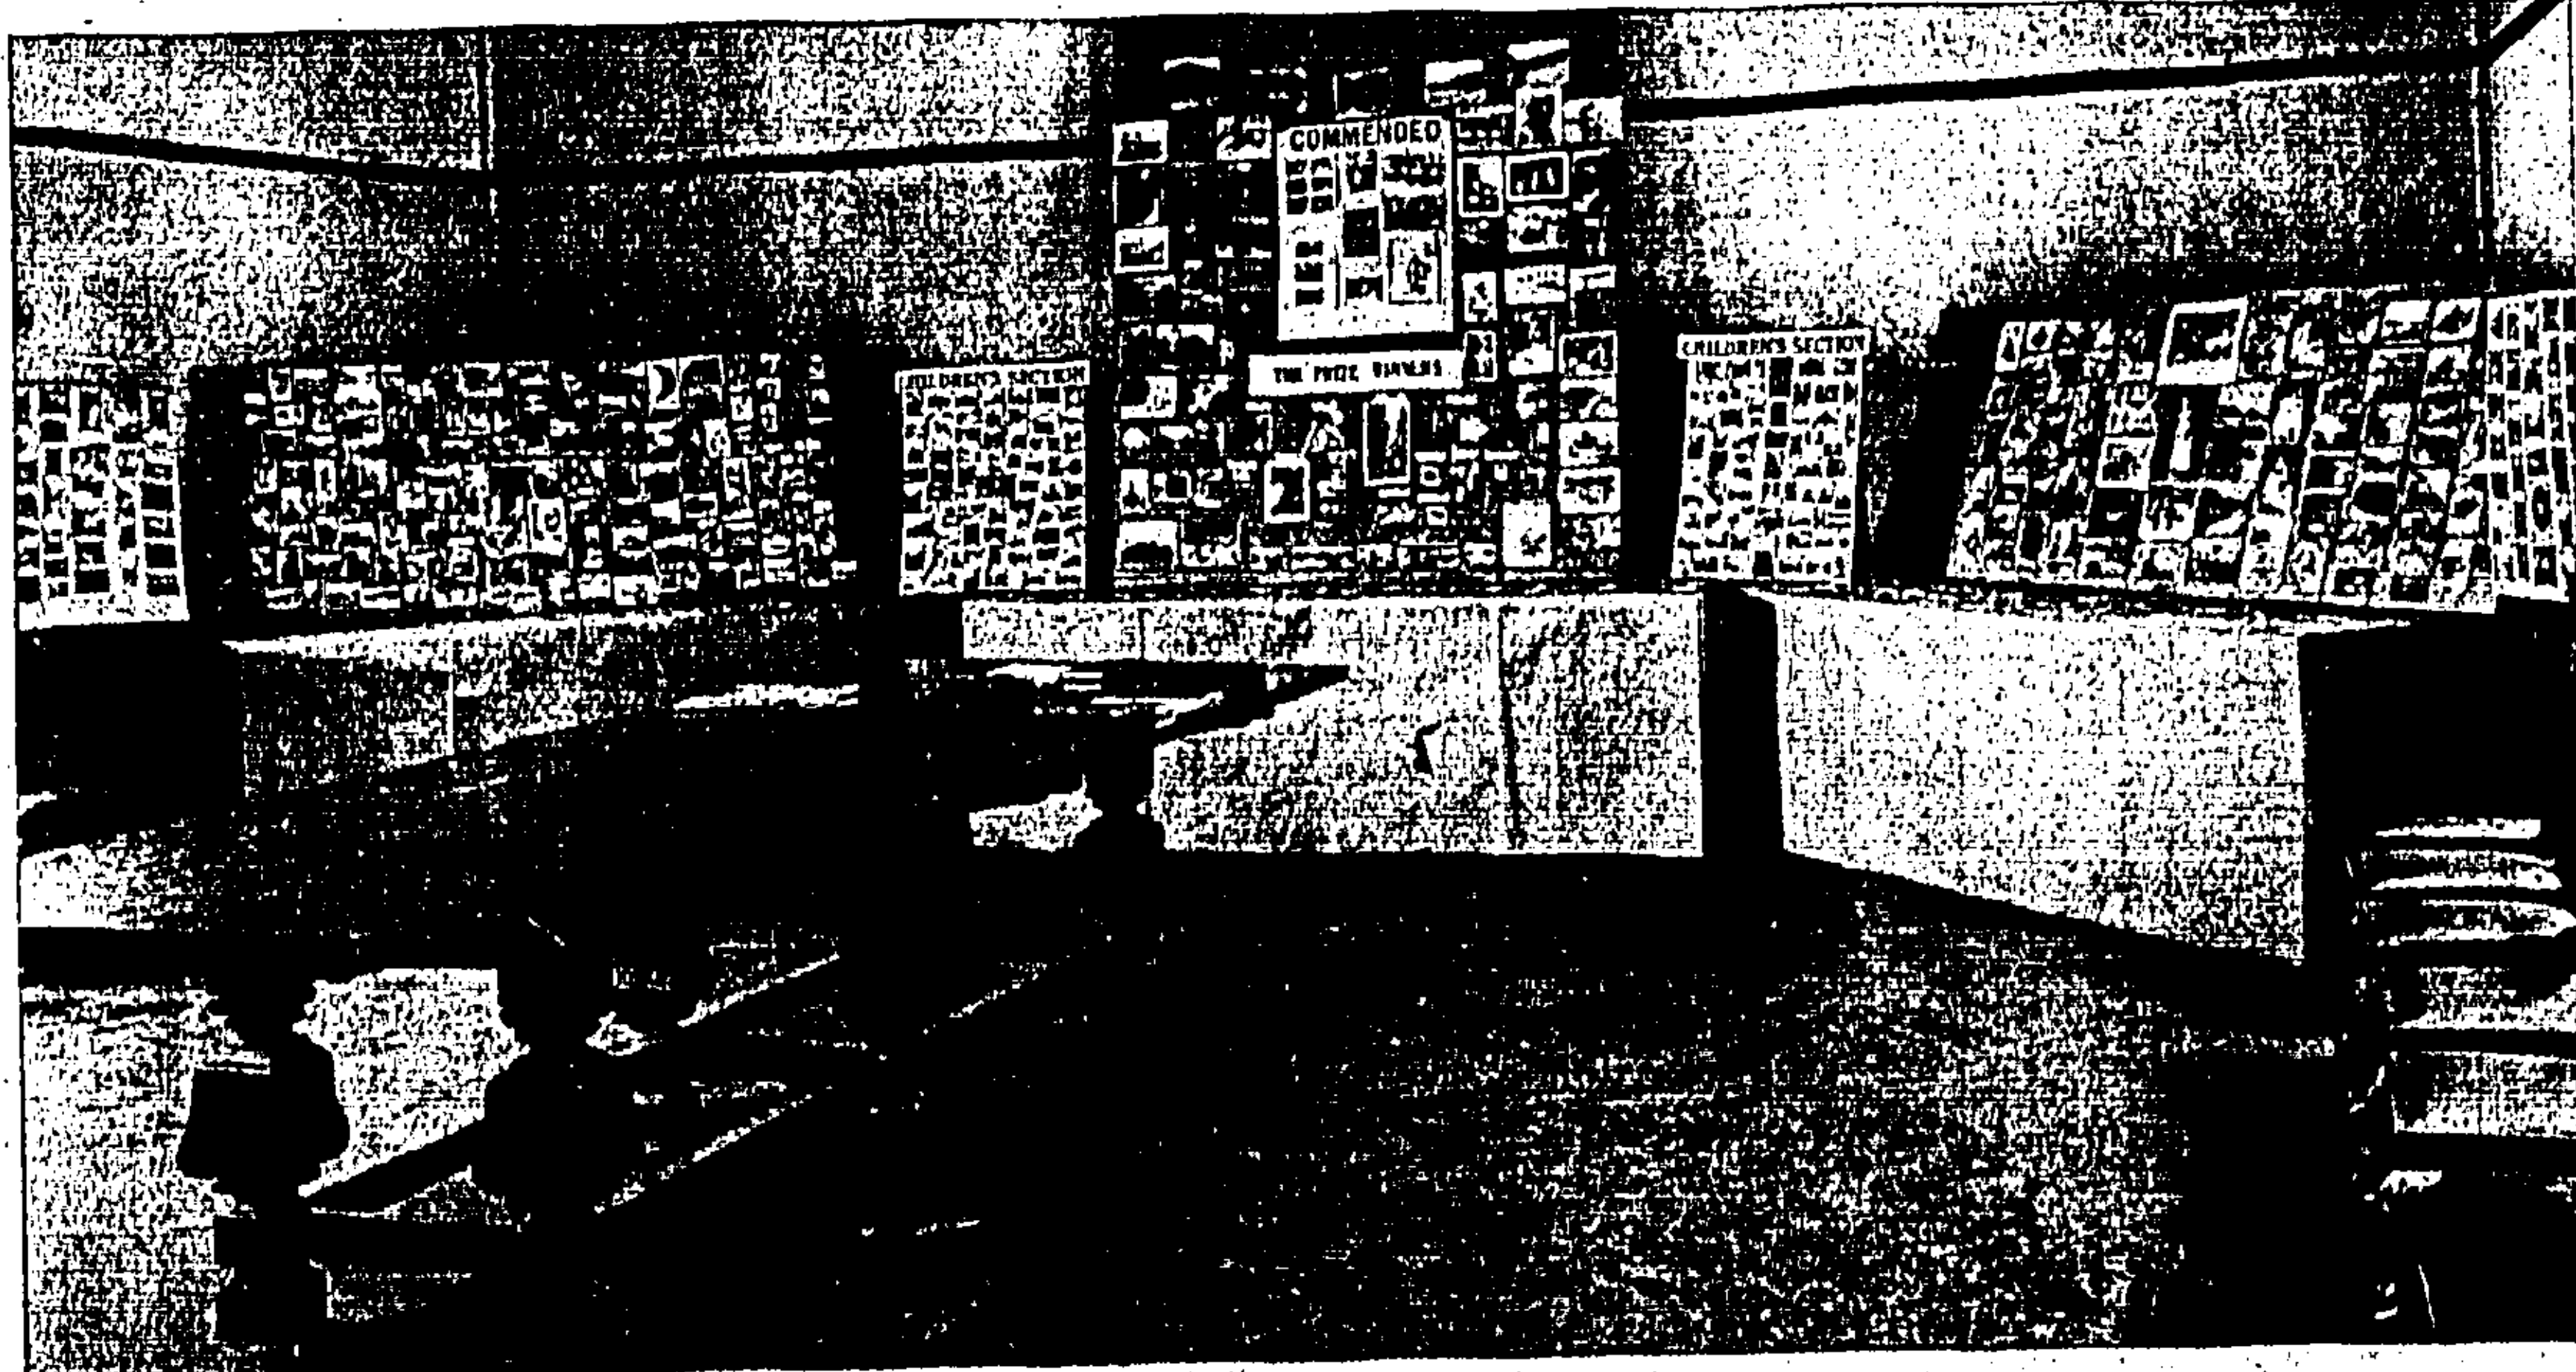

Harold Dallimore, the gardener, said that he passed the summer house shortly before 11 a.m. and heard a bubbling and gurgling sound. He saw what he believed to be Major Heseltinge's leg protruding from the summer house. He took no notice then, but just before one o'clock he felt curious about the sound, and on going to the arbour discovered the Major kneeling in front of a seat. A service revolver was close by.

said his brother was the last man whom he imagined would have taken his life. He had, however, had several very bad falls while playing polo and hunting, and these had doubtless affected his brain. Major Heseltinge's finances were such that he had no confided in him (the witness) they could have been put right without any difficulty. Had his brother been normal he would have confided in him.

The Coroner returned a verdict of suicide while of unsound mind, as the result of a head injury, and added that the falls received while playing polo and hunting might have affected Major Heseltinge's brain.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL SENSATION

JACKSON LEAVES CHELSEA

FOR A CHESHIRE LEAGUE CLUB

TO TEST A THEORY

Alex Jackson, the famous Scottish and Chelsea footballer, who is on the Chelsea transfer list, has been signed on by Ashton National, a Cheshire
League Club.

The Cheshire League in which Ashton National play is comparable with the London Combination. The club possesses an excellent ground and 5,000 gates are common.

The secretary of Ashton National, Mr. L. Burrows, said to a reporter: "We are trying to make a big effort this season and have already signed on Duncan Lindsay, the prominent Bury player, and Norman Brown, of Stock-port."

most brilliant forwards in English football to-day. He has 17 international "caps," all gained playing for Scotland.

$7,500 TRANSFER FEE.

A sensation was sprung on the football world last April when the Chelsea Football Club announced that they had decided not to offer him re-engagement for the coming season, after securing him from Huddersfield two seasons previously at a transfer fee of $7,500.

"There is not the slightest possibility that Jackson will ever play for us again," said Mr.
David Calderhead, the Chelsea secretary-manager. "We simply made up our minds that we would not have him again."

The club offered no precise explanation for their action beyond stating that Jackson had been guilty of a breach of training regulations.

Jackson, however, said, "I am alleged to have broken training regulations at Manchester by ordering drinks to be sent to my bedroom at the hotel. That is true. I admit the responsibility of ordering enough for one drink per man after we had already had one drink each."

AN EXPERIMENT.

Jackson has long held the opinion that a footballer should
be paid according to his ability
and power as a "gate" attraction.
In his new engagement, while he is guaranteed a certain sum every week, he will make a practical test of his ideas.

"I am going to Ashton National," he said "for a month as an experiment. I shall play in four home matches for a sum far greater than any League club
would pay, and further discussions will be based on the result of the experiment."

"The club approached me, and I put it to them that I was invited to play for them
because of the 'gate' appeal.
They agreed. Then I suggested my payment should be on the basis of 'gate' appeal.
Cricketers in Lancashire are paid that way—why not footballers?"

"A typically Scottish idea, it will be said. It is not Scottish;
it is common sense. I am in football because I like the game, but also to make my living, and, like all men, I want the most I can get from my job."

THE POSSIBILITIES.

"If there are any League clubs who doubt my still being able to play up to the transfer fee that Chelsea want for my services,
here will be a first-class chance to judge for themselves. But I tell you frankly that with the prospect of $8 as a maximum wage
in the League and unlimited possibilities when playing outside

NOT COMING TO HONGKONG

News has been received in the Colony that the All-India Hockey
Team, who won the world championship at the Olympic Games at Los Angeles, are not returning to India via Japan, Shanghai and Hongkong, as was originally intended, but are proceeding to Europe, where they will meet Germany in a series of matches.

All arrangements for the match between Hongkong and the Indian team for Friday have now been cancelled.

TOKYO FOR 1940 OLYMPICS

AMERICAN FEELING IN FAVOUR

William May Garland, president of the Los Angeles organizing committee which staged the Tenth Olympic Games just completed,
wants to see the Olympic torch carried to Tokyo, Japan, in 1940.

Mr. Garland, who is one of America's three members on the International Olympic Committee, said he would do all possible to aid the people of Japan to get the Twelfth Olympiad just as they made possible the success of the Tenth World Olympiad by their splendid support and co-operation.

"It will be a long distance for some nations to travel, just as Los Angeles was a long journey from many parts of the world, but I believe the Japanese if given the opportunity will stage one of the most successful Olympic meets in history," he said.

"As Count Henri de Baillet
La Tour says, the International Olympic Committee cannot afford to leave one part of the world
unaware of the Olympic ideal and I want to see the Olympic torch carried from Berlin around the world into Tokyo in 1940."

"The Japanese in their appearances here have shown themselves
the finest sportsmen in the world and they are rapidly becoming our finest competitors as well. Certainly they are among the best behaved. There are no finer gentlemen than the Japanese."

To the Japanese went the distinction of sending more experts,
as well as athletes, than any other country except the United States.

More than 100 Japanese received press credentials and their output, at cable rates as high as $3 per word, reached staggering proportions before the games. The flow was scheduled to be maintained while the big show lasted.

Japan entered the 1932 games
with the idea of making as impressive a demonstration as possible in every particular, designed to help influence the International Olympic committee to swing the 1940 Olympics to Tokyo.

the League—well, what would you do?"

If the Jackson experiment is a success it may well appeal to other players. No one can blame
the player, but it may well prove a menace to Football League clubs, and possibly result in a reconsideration of the maximum wage rule.

It should be made clear that this is not a Football Association matter—Jackson is only going outside the scope of the Football League.

NEW TENNIS "PROMISE"

9 YEAR-OLD ENGLISH BOY IMPRESSES

It is not often that a player
beaten 6—0, 6—0 in a lawn tennis tournament commands any notice
or is regarded as anything else
but a "rabbit," but quite the reverse is the case with little D.
Gordon, of La Villa School, Lausanne, who lost in the first round of the "under sixteen" event in the schoolboys' championships at Queen's Club.

Gordon is only nine years old,
and a little taller than the net,
and as he was playing against a boy of over 14 who seemed twice as tall he was expected to lose.

Gordon did not win a single game, yet he showed more promise than any boy in his section.
He served overhead, occasionally followed his service to the net, his volleys were crisp if uncertain, and he was not afraid to run about.

His style was easy and not forced. Indeed, Gordon has never had a lesson, but he has watched
a lot of lawn tennis, and from watching has learned how to make his top spin drives. For one so young and so small he had a lot of power in his shots. He was beaten because his opponent was too tall and strong and knows how to play.

Of one thing that is certain—
Gordon is the best young player
for his age. He is not, perhaps,
a prodigy, but he certainly has great promise.

GERMAN CRISIS

GOVERNMENT DECIDES TO RETAIN OFFICE

Berlin, Sept. 13. The government has resolved to retain office, despite the disapproval of the Reichstag. Herr von Papen enjoys the full confidence of President Hindenburg, as shown by the fact that Hindenburg signed the decree of dissolution at his country home at Neudeck, leaving von Papen to act as he liked.

The Germans are debating whether the President of the Reichstag acted correctly in completing the vote of no-confidence before announcing the dissolution. The Nazis hold that Capt. Goering, Speaker, acted rightly.

Centrists think the dissolution will seriously harm Germany and should have been avoided, while German nationalists defend von Papen, urging the nation to rally round Hindenburg. The Social Democrats accept the dissolution and the Communists demand Capt. Goering to convene the Reichstag to-morrow, but the request will probably be ignored.

It is expected that the elections will be held early in November, provided law and order is maintained.

Meanwhile the Government has acquired kudos through the firmness of its demand for equality of treatment of the armaments question. All eyes are focussed on Britain, whose attitude is expected to pave the way for conciliation.—Reuter.

who would be willing to let their husbands spend evening after evening with a vamp like that."

"Dixie, you don't mean to suggest—!"

"Heavens forbid! I don't mean to suggest a thing in the world. Of course I know Dan isn't the sort to play around with anyone else—even if it were harmless. I wouldn't say a thing like that for the world!"

The denial was a shade too vehement, and Dixie's smile a trifle forced but Cherry did not seem to notice this. She looked across at the other girl. Cherry's face had suddenly become serious.

"If anybody would dare to say things like that I hope you'll tell them it's not true," she said earnestly. "Dan wouldn't—he couldn't do anything except play fair. He knows I understand about Miss Vall. Dan admires her because of her ability and of course he's grateful for all the help she's given him."

"Of course, lamb! I know that's all there is to it. Nobody's been talking about your Dan and I was a dumbbell to suggest it. Matter of fact, I only meant Dan's exceptional because he is so level-headed. There now—is everything all right?"

They talked of other subjects. Cherry brought the dessert and poured the coffee. Afterward they washed and wiped the dishes together and put the room to rights. Then Dixie sat before the mirror while Cherry dampened the frizzled, unruly hair and combed it painstakingly into neat waves. It was almost an hour's work but when it was finished Dixie was enthusiastic.

"It looks better than when they set it at the shop!" she insisted. "Honestly, I don't know how I can thank you—"

"There's nothing to thank me for," Cherry told her. "I didn't have anything else to do and it's been fun."

A little later Dixie departed. In her own apartment she hung away the raincoat that was dry now and tucked the gossamer out of sight. Dixie stood before the mirror for a moment inspecting her carefully waved locks. She was thinking of the girl down stairs.

"There's no use to tell her," Dixie informed the image in the looking glass. "It's better for her not to know but just the same it's a dirty shame! I'd like to tell Dan Phillips what I think of him!"

It was evident from the black

looks directed at the girl in the mirror that these remarks would not be complimentary. With a sigh Dixie turned away to pick up the mystery story she had begun the night before.

The way in which the good-looking amateur detective tracked down the perpetrator of the series of horrifying crimes was fascinating reading. Dixie did not put the book down until she had finished the last chapter. The hands of the tiny ivory alarm clock on the bedside table pointed to 20 minutes after 12. Dixie tossed the book aside then and switched out the roselighted light.

At the same time in the second floor apartment Dan Phillips yawned and discarded his vest.

"Say, Cherry," he asked, "what's become of that yarn I wrote about the taxicab driver? The one I called 'Night Life'? Remember? I'd like to take it around for Brenda to have a look at."

Cherry's back was toward him. She did not turn as she answered. There was a pause, almost imperceptible, and then she said, "I'm sorry, Dan, but I destroyed it. I didn't mean to. It got in with some other papers and I didn't know until it was gone—"

The words were a deliberate falsehood. But of course Dan would never learn the truth! (To be continued.)

HONGKONG COURT JURISDICTION.

CROWN'S RIGHTS IN CASE ABOVE CIVIL ACTION

An important legal ruling was given by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon at the continued hearing of the Sze Yap S. S. Company embezzlement case, in reply to a submission by the defence that the criminal proceedings were barred by reason of the amount in question having been included in a previous Civil Court judgment.

The accused, Tsui Wai-hing, described as a business agent of the Sze Yap S. S. Co., was accused of converting to his own use $1,584, said to have been traced by six documents issued by Messrs. Siemens of Canton. It was admitted however, that this amount had been included in a civil action for $8,854.08 previously successfully brought against the accused.

At an early stage of the present proceedings, the Company retracted and asked that the criminal charge be withdrawn, but this was refused by his Worship, who ordered that the documents be impounded and the charge proceeded with, with the Crown substituted for the Company in the role of prosecutor.

Mr. Leo D'Almada appeared for the defence. Mr. Prentice watched the case in the interests of Ng Jim-kai, the manager of the company.

Crown's Rights.

His Worship said that at the last hearing he adjourned the case to consider the points that Mr. D'Almada had raised on the jurisdiction of the Court. He had consulted the authorities Mr. D'Almada had placed before him, then, and as Mr. D'Almada said, he found there was nowhere actual reference to it. But on reading what Mr. D'Almada had kindly lent to him, he thought he must rule against Mr. D'Almada on the grounds that the rights of the Crown in the criminal prosecution must not be interfered with, by any civil action of the individual in the other Court.

The case was then proceeded with, and resuming his examination of Ng Jim-kai, the principal witness, at the point where he broke off to interpose his legal submission, Mr. D'Almada asked—Has the action upon which you had obtained judgment in the other Court, been settled between the Company and the defendant?—There has been no settlement.

Was the whole action settled for $4,000?—I have not heard of that. Have you been told of that?—No.

And you have not made any enquiries at all, is that right?—I don't know what has been decided.

Look here, Mr. Ng Jim-kai, you swore information here through your solicitors, is that right?—Supposing there was a request, I would have no right to settle it except through a solicitor.

Heard of It.

Pressed, witness said there had been a request, but he was certain a settlement had not been made on that request.

Is it partially settled?—There is no question of any partial settlement. I had no authority to

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON.

VISIBLE AT HONGKONG IN EARLY MORNING

There will be an almost total eclipse of the moon to-night, the area obscured being .982 of the moon's disc. The eclipse will be visible at Hongkong in the early hours of to-morrow morning, provided there is no obscuration by clouds. The phases of the eclipse, and approximate Hongkong time, will be as follows:

Moon enters shadow 3.18 a.m., middle of eclipse 5 a.m., moon leaves shadow 6.43 a.m.

Would you have a right to take that money if the defendant had come to you with $8,000?—I would also not have any right there.

You, as Chairman of the Board of Directors, must have been told of the payment or settlement of this particular matter?—I am not the Chairman.

Or a member of the Board?—I am a member, but if someone else had been approached, I would not have known. It was not I who was approached by the defendant on the matter.

Was the Board of Directors approached?—Perhaps, some of the members of the Board may have been consulted with.

And you know absolutely nothing, you say, if the Board of Directors had been communicated with? You as a member of that Board, would have been apprised of it?—Yes, I would have heard of that request.

Had Informed Solicitors.

The Magistrate interposing: You say you have heard of that request; do you mean request for a settlement?—Yes.

Mr. D'Almada: So far as solicitors of the Company are concerned they receive instructions from you, is that right?

Mr. Prentice, interposing asked for elucidation on the nature of the instructions alluded to by Mr. D'Almada.

Mr. D'Almada: And on Friday week last, at any rate some time previous to Saturday last week, did you inform your solicitors that this present charge had been settled between the parties, that is to say between the Company and the defendant?—Yes. When I received such outside information I told the solicitors the matter had been settled.

Do you mean to suggest that as a member of the Board of Directors you would receive outside information and then told your solicitors that the matter had been settled?—What do you mean by outside settlement?—Tsui Wai-hing, the defendant, had told others he had settled the matter with the Directors, and the information was passed on to me by the Superintendent of the Company, Mr. Ma Chui-chiu.

Ma Chui-chiu is a member of the Board of Directors?—Yes. He said that the defendant had sent a man whose name he did not know and whose surname is Fan, to see Ma. I personally do not know Fan.

Did Ma tell you he had settled

REFUSE REMOVAL.

REPLY TO SANITARY BOARD RECOMMENDATION

The Sanitary Board have received a reply from the Government relative to the Board's recommendations regarding a better system of refuse removal. The communication is from the Colonial Secretary, and reads as follows:

I am directed to acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 20, 1932, forwarding a resolution regarding the removal of refuse which was adopted at a meeting of the Sanitary Board held on July 19, 1932.

In regard to the recommendations of the Board, I am to state:

(1) That in accordance with the practice of the Government new lorries when required will be of a modern and up-to-date pattern, and that the Government will be glad to know what pattern the Board recommends.

(2) None of the lorries have fixed covers: if fully loaded and if operating in a high wind or traversing some unevenness in the surface all are liable to drop a little material, unless canvas covers, which are supplied to each, are securely fastened. But in point of fact it is understood that they very rarely do drop anything, and on these rare occasions it is at once picked up.

(3) The Government would be glad to receive the suggestions of the Board in regard to the review and revision of the existing hours of collection of refuse.

the matter with Fan?—He told me the matter had been settled.

Defendant Discharged.

After a consultation in chambers with Mr. D'Almada and Mr. Prentice, his Worship said that he understood Mr. Ng Jim-kai, the complainant, had a promissory note signed by the defendant in favour of the Sze Yap Company for $1,500 in settlement or part settlement of the moneys alleged to be due by him to them.

After remarking that he had been to some trouble in thrashing out the case his Worship thought that the actual truth of the matter was that the particular system adopted by Chinese business firms in the collection of their accounts led to a very natural confusion when the principles of British Law were applied to those accounts. He thought he would be wrong in applying the law too harshly in the present case.

His Worship made it quite clear that there had been no improper conduct on the part of anybody connected with the prosecution, remarking that he was satisfied that the complainant had no intent to impound a felony.

His Worship again reiterated the warning that people had to be most careful not to employ the Criminal Court as a lever to extract a Civil right.

The defendant was accordingly discharged on the production of the promissory note.

"POLITICAL STUNT."

GANDHI'S FAST THREAT DENOUNCED

Bombay, Sept. 13. "Gandhi's threat to starve himself to death is not a moral fight, but a political stunt," declared Dr. Ambedkar, leader of the depressed classes to-day.—Reuter.

Opinions in London.

London, Sept. 13. Careful examination of Gandhi's arguments by the English press lead to the general conclusion that the Government's decision in regard to representations of the depressed classes cannot be deflected by his suicide threat.

The Times points out that Mr. MacDonald vainly sought to reason with him in an altogether admirable reply, which he shows that the award has merely given the depressed classes a limited number of special constituencies to enable them better to defend their interests. Mr. MacDonald vainly explained that so far as cutting off the depressed from the Hindu world, the award gave the voters a second vote in the general or Hindu constituencies in order to preserve their connexion with the Hindu society and to encourage political co-operation between casteless caste Hindus.The Daily Herald, whose pronounced sympathy for Gandhi is longstanding, admits it is hard for the average Englishman to understand the working of his mind. The paper points out that his threatened sacrifice is not for what appears to the average British mind, a larger issue, but one which seems a detail in the constitution framing.—Reuter.

DEMOCRATIC MAINE.

BARMETER STATE SWITCHES FROM REPUBLICAN

New York, Sept. 13. Maine, the "barometer" state of the Confederation, which traditionally votes Republican at the elections, apparently has gone Democratic by a narrow majority, both for the Governorship and two out of three candidates for Congress.

The Democrat, J. L. Brunn, for Governorship, leads the Republican Eutleigh Martin by 677 votes. While Republicans throughout the country are very disappointed, Democrats are jubilant.—Reuter.

JAPAN RECOGNISES MANCHUKUO.

GENERAL MUTO TO SIGN TREATY

Tokyo, Sept. 13. Following imperial sanction, the Foreign Minister, Count Uchida has wired to General Muto, instructing him to go to Changchun to sign the treaty recognising Manchukuo.—Reuter.

Privy Council Questions.

Tokyo, Sept. 13. During the morning's plenary session of the Privy Council, Mr. Ryohel Okada questioned Government representatives regarding details of the proposals, as well as the bearing of Japan's relations with the League and the Powers. Count Uchida and General Araki replied.

Viscount Ishiguro queried the future relationship of Japan and Manchuria and General Araki replied, after which Viscount Ishiguro and Kuroda spoke, voicing their approval of the Government's proposals.

Subsequently the council unanimously approved them.

According to the present arrangement the signature to the protocol will be concluded at Changchun on the morning of September 15 at 11 o'clock, Tokyo time. The signatories will be General Muto and Cheng Hsiao-hau, Manchukuo Premier. A public announcement will be made the same afternoon at 4 o'clock, simultaneously at Tokyo and Changchun.—Reuter.

Shanghai Japanese Discuss Precaution

Shanghai, Sept. 13. According to information from Japanese sources, the Japanese authorities in Shanghai are taking every precautionary measure to ward off any possible disturbance in Shanghai in view of the decision of the Japanese government to extend formal recognition of Manchukuo.

A meeting was held at the Japanese Consulate General at noon to-day, when all Japanese consular officials and Army and Navy officers attended. Although the result of the meeting was not divulged, it is understood that the discussion was mainly centred on measures for the protection of Japanese nationals at Shanghai, in view of the apprehension of

A CHARITY CONCERT.

BRIGHT ENTERTAINMENT ARRANGED

A concert which is being organised in aid of the funds of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, will take place in the Great Hall at King's College on October 8. The programme promises to be exceptionally good, including selections by the Welsh Choir of the South Wales Borderers, songs by Mrs. R. Sanger, Mr. Li Chor-chi and others, Mr. Ronald True at the piano, and a play in English by Chinese students, entitled "The Astrologer."

The proceeds will be devoted to the maternity centres maintained by the Brigade, particularly to the recently opened centre at Cheung Chau, which is rendering a great service to the islanders, having been working at capacity since its inauguration. With such a worthy object in view, the organisers anticipate generous support. Tickets, which will be $3, $2 and $1, will be on sale shortly.

BANDITS HOLD FULL SWAY

NORTH MANCHURIA OVER-RUN

Peking, Sept. 13. Bandit attacks are entirely disorganising the railway traffic in North Manchuria.

Bandits attacked and derailed, and then robbed, three trains on Sunday, one northward and two southward of Harbin. In one case nine Chinese were killed, and sixteen persons, including ten Russians, were wounded.

Several were killed or wounded in the other attacks, and numbers, including Russians and Japanese, have been carried off for ransom. Meanwhile, foreign messages from Newchwang state that the whole district north and northeast of Newchwang is over-run by bandits, and wholesale kidnapping is rife.—Reuter.

possible disturbances following the Japanese recognition of Manchukuo.

Japanese warships in Shanghai are reported to have received instructions to hold themselves ready to meet any possible emergency.—Reuter's Special.

MANCHUKUO RECOGNITION EVE ANXIETY

GROWING TENSION

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST DISORDERS

CHINA ATTITUDE

(Telegraph Special.)

Shanghai, Sept. 14.

To-morrow will be an anxious day for the authorities in all parts of China.

Reports from far and near show that Sino-Japanese tension is increasing with the approach of the hour when Japan is due to recognize Manchukuo, but elaborate precautions are being taken to check possible disorders.

The Shanghai authorities are particularly vigilant and it is expected that the precautions will be effective as far as Shanghai is concerned.

LIN SIN AND ARTICLE XVI.

Mr. Lin Sen, the President of the State Council, is quoted by Chinese reports as saying that Japan's action in extending formal recognition to the puppet administration will compel China to invoke Article Sixteen of the League Covenant providing for economic sanctions when the Assembly considers the Sino-Japanese dispute.—Reuter.

JAPAN'S MOTIVES.

Nanking, Sept. 14. The official Government organ, the Central Daily News, to-day give prominence to an article declaring that Japan's impending recognition of the Manchukuo Government is "the preliminary step in Japan's aggression in China."

The journal attributes to Japan three motives in extending recognition at this time, namely: (1) to extend her military activities into Jehol, Mongolia and North China.

(2) to escape responsibility for the military invasion of Manchuria by recognising Manchukuo.

(3) to embarrass the League of Nations by attempting to make the Sino-Japanese dispute over Manchuria a closed affair when the Lytton Report is submitted to the League Council at the end of September.—Reuter.

FERRY STEAMER DISASTER

18 FURTHER BODIES RECOVERED

New York, Sept. 14. Eighteen bodies have floated to the surface at the mouth of East River, near the scene of the recent disaster to the ferry-steamers "Observation."

The number known dead is now 64, but it is still uncertain whether all the bodies have yet been recovered.—Reuter.

MYSTERY LONDON DISCUSSION

ANGLO-AMERICAN ASSOCIATION: WAR DEBTS AND FAR EAST

London, Sept. 14.

"A Mystery Discussion" which includes references to Britain's war debt to the United States, was held yesterday at No. 10, Downing Street, according to the Daily Herald.

There has been considerable speculation regarding Britain's proposals when the next instalment falls due on December 15. There have been no receipts from reparations or war debts to Britain, but it has been suggested that Britain is desirous of meeting its obligations.

CLOSING SCENES OF TRIAL DRAMA

PRISONER UNMOVED BY SENTENCE

CONDEMNED TO DIE

In the words of the well-known formula, the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp) this morning pronounced sentence of death on Cheng Kwok-yau for procuring the murder of George Fung in Village Road on March 24th.

As he stood to receive sentence, Cheng smiled. At the conclusion he bowed and left the dock, still smiling.

Nearly 2,000 people were crammed into the Court and adjoining corridors. Another 500 stood outside, waiting anxiously to hear the sentence. A sound suggesting that it had come as a shock rose from the body of the Court as sentence was pronounced.

EXCITEMENT IN CROWDED COURT

Half an hour before the Court opened, there was not an available seat in the well of the Court. Ten minutes later there was not even standing room.

Mr. R. C. H. Lim, who represented the accused in the absence of the two leading counsel, Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C. and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., was in Court early. Crown counsel, Mr. R. E. Lindell and Mr. H. G. Sheldon arrived just before 10 o'clock.

When Cheng Kwok-yau entered, accompanied by three warders, excitement reigned. Necks were strained to catch sight of the prisoner who stood in the dock, immaculately dressed, smiling at the crowd.

IN MOURNING.

He wore a cream suit, black tie and on his left arm was a black band—an indication of mourning for his centenary grandmother, who died shortly after he was found guilty.

When Cheng was seated, Mr. D. L. Strellett, one of the firm of defending solicitors, spoke to Cheng and the pair smiled at some remark of Mr. Strellett's. Mr. Lim joined them and had a short consultation with the prisoner.

At 10 o'clock, the Court rose en masse as the Chief Justice, in his ermine robes, entered.

THE BLACK CAP.

For a moment there was dead silence, but as he unfolded the ominous black cap, a babble rose from the crowded benches in the body of the room.

The Chief Justice wasted no time in preamble. "As you are no doubt aware," he said, addressing the prisoner, "your conviction was confirmed with this problem and adds that it was held at the invitation of the Prime Minister "to discuss questions of mutual interest to the two countries."

The Prime Minister and Sir John Simon represented Great Britain and the American Ambassador, Mr. Andrew Mellon, and Senator Reed represented the United States.

Stressing the importance of the presence of Senator Reed, the paper says that he has been President Hoover's chief spokesman in the Senate and has also been very prominent in recent war debts discussions in the United States.

It is also regarded as extremely probable that the conference will discuss the possibility of meeting Britain's obligations.

In Arbutnot Road, a few Police and Prison Officers were waiting when the prisoner was brought up the steps of the Gaol and hustled through the doorway.

The last seen of the condemned man before the prison gates, changed behind him was of a man who was walking with

ARCTIC SEA DRAMA

FLYING FAMILY RESCUED

DISTRESS SIGNAL SEEN AT ONE A.M.

WAIT UNTIL DAWN

London, Sept. 13.

The anxiety felt for Mr. George Hutchinson, his wife and two children, and the crew of four of his Amphibian aeroplane called "The Flying Family," was relieved to-day when a wireless message was received from Captain Watson, the master of the Aberdeen trawler "Lord Talbot," announcing that he had located the Hutchinsons and was awaiting daylight to rescue them.

All were well, the message said, but the machine was smashed.

The master and crew of the Lord Talbot have been engaged in a painstaking search of the Greenland coast near Angmagssalik since Sunday afternoon.

It was at one o'clock this morning when a signal from the "Flying Family" was observed, but a heavy swell made it impossible to effect the rescue in the dark.

The Flying Family was found at the lower end of Ikarsuk Fjord, some fifty miles to the south of Angmagssalik, which is the headquarters of the British Arctic Air Survey Expedition, two of whose members had joined in the search by motorboat. The plane's wireless was out of action.

INTREPID SKIPPER.

The owners of the trawler had given Captain Watson, who is an intrepid and resourceful skipper, instructions to render every possible assistance in the search and to fall in with any wish expressed by Mr. Hutchinson.

The Lord Talbot is a vessel of 325 tons and one of the best-equipped trawlers in the Aberdeen fleet. After landing the Hutchinson family and crew safely, the trawler returned to the fishing grounds.

Hutchinson and his family and assistants were landed at Angmagssalik at 3.30 p.m. to-day.—Reuter and British Wireless.

HANDCUFFED FOR FIRST TIME.

The intense interest aroused in the case may be gauged from the crowd which viewed the departure from vantage points of nearby buildings. Even the hoods of motor cars were utilised by the curious throng.

A cordon of police drove the crowd back from the car and shortly afterwards, Cheng Kwok-yau emerged from the Court and was driven handcuffed for the first time since his arrest, to Victoria Gaol.

AT THE GAOL.

In Arbutnot Road, a few Police and Prison Officers were waiting when the prisoner was brought up the steps of the Gaol and hustled through the doorway.

The last seen of the condemned man before the prison gates, changed behind him was of a man who was walking with

POLITENESS STAGE PASSED

ELECTION CAMPAIGN SOON BEGUN

NEW VON PAPEN AFFRONT

Berlin, Sept. 13.

By common consent, the leading figures in the political controversy over the dramatic developments in the Reichstag yesterday, are allowing the matter to drop.

All their efforts are now being concentrated upon getting in "on the ground floor" with their electoral programmes, ready for the next election, which will probably be called for November next.

The Socialists have already issued their first appeal to the country, the Radical parties are content with oiling their machinery, while the Nazis are not so much concerned with drafting their election manifesto as with hastening the date of the contest.

VON PAPEN STAYS AWAY.

Captain von Papen, the Chancellor, has further affronted those who demand the upholding of the dignity of Parliament by failing to appear before either of the two standing Committees of the Reichstag.

They can do very little about the matter in the circumstances and have been reduced to protesting to President Hindenburg, who, however, has given the Chancellor more or less carte blanche in his handling of the situation.

PROTEST RESOLUTION.

The Committees concerned have drafted a resolution charging the government with a breach of the Constitution.

Under the Constitution, the Chancellor will be compelled to order new elections on or before November 6. It is thought that he will hold them back until the last possible date.—Reuter.

U.S. AMATEUR GOLF

WRETCHED DISPLAY BY BRITONS

Baltimore, Sept. 13.

With the exception of Eric McRae, the young Scottish player, all British entrants for the American Open Golf Championship were eliminated to-day in the second qualifying round.

Those who competed from Britain included Torrance, Cyril Tolley, Eric Fiddian, Rex Hartley, Lister Hartley, and John de Forest.

The leader at the close of the second qualifying round was Johnny Fischer, an American contender, who returned cards aggregating 142 for 36 holes, equalling the record qualifying score made by Clark Corkran in 1924 and Bobby Jones in 1927 and 1930.—Reuter.

Owing to the recent indisposition of the Colonial Secretary, the Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax, the meeting convened for to-morrow morning for the delivery of the Budget Speech has been postponed until Thursday next, September 22nd.

KREUGER'S FEET OF CLAY

INDICTMENT IN BANKRUPTCY OFFICIAL REPORT

(Telegraph Special.)

Stockholm, Sept. 13.

This is the verdict upon Ivar Kreuger given in the preliminary report of the administrators in the Kreuger and Toll bankruptcy proceedings.

The reports conclude: "Kreuger was not a man of business but a criminal."

HINDENBURG-GOERING LETTERS

HITLER TO 'FIGHT TO FINISH'

Berlin, Sept. 14.

A frigid exchange of letters between Captain Goering, the Nazi Speaker of the Reichstag, and President von Hindenburg, has followed Captain von Papen's non-appearance before the standing Committees.

Captain Goering, in a letter lacking all forms of politeness, protests against the Chancellor's attitude towards the Committee for Safeguarding the Rights of Parliament, in making his appearance subject to certain conditions.

The President's reply, which is couched in terms similarly abrupt, fully supports the Chancellor and says that the conflict would not have arisen if Captain Goering had allowed the Chancellor to address the Reichstag.

PRESIDENT'S CONDITION.

President Hindenburg adds that the Government will appear before the Committee if, and only if, Captain Goering will recognise as legal the situation as created by the Dissolution Decree.

The Chancellor, Captain von Papen, in the meantime, has written to the Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, declining to attend as long as the Speaker's attitude that "the Government has been overthrown" is maintained.

HITLER'S PLANS.

Hitler, at a meeting of the Nazi leaders, indicated that he was preparing to fight to a finish "with and for the people against this reactionary clique."—Reuter.

NEW YORK STOCK SLUMP

LOWER PRICES AGAIN RECORDED

New York, Sept. 13.

For the second successive day, the Stock Exchange reacted from the recent optimistic levels.

A severe break at the opening was only partially redeemed by a rally during the afternoon, and prominent descriptions closed several points down.—Reuter.

London, Sept. 13.

A sharp set-back in commodities resulted in substantial declines in share values on the London Stock Exchange market to-day. The tendency at the close, however, was steeper at lower values.

Leading British funds mostly gave way one-eighth to a quarter, but Conversion Five Per Cent were firm.—British Wireless.

LATEST CHILEAN REVOLUTION

ULTIMATUM TO DAVILA

A QUICK CHANGE

Santiago, Sept. 14.

Chile has just undergone another revolution carried out swiftly and without bloodshed yesterday.

Armed forces, under the leadership of Air-Commandant Merino, issued an ultimatum to President Davila threatening to bomb the Presidential Palace if he had not resigned by four o'clock in the afternoon.

The ultimatum alleged, among other things, that President Davila's policies had deviated from true Socialism to the detriment of the poor and needy.

PRESIDENT COMPLIES.

There were no disturbances, for Davila, who was formerly Chilean Ambassador in Washington, quietly complied with the ultimatum and resigned.

It is reported that he has taken refuge in the American Embassy.

Air-Commandant Merino has established a temporary government, with General Blanco, commander-in-chief of the Army as Acting President.—Reuter.

GORGULOFF EXECUTED

REPRIEVE PLEAS REFUSED

Paris, Sept. 13.

Gorguloff, the assassin of M. Paul Doumer, President of France, will be executed at dawn to-morrow.

President Lebrun to-day refused to grant a reprieve despite the efforts of his advocates and of his wife, who has been making strenuous attempts to convince the authorities that Gorguloff is insane.

The condemned man will not be informed of the President's decision until half an hour before he is taken out to the guillotine when he will be awakened by a visit of the Public Prosecutor, his counsel and a priest with the traditional formula: "Gorguloff, be brave. Your appeal has failed."

Madame Gorguloff is shortly to become a mother.—Reuter.

Paris, Sept. 14. Gorguloff was executed at 5.52 a.m. to-day.—Reuter.

PRISONER TRIES TO ESCAPE

EFFORT TO FORCE CELL BARS

Whilst inspecting the cells of the West Point Police Station yesterday, Sub-Inspector Phillips came across a Chinese attempting to force the bars of the No. 2 cell with a plank.

The man, who had been arrested on a charge of larceny, had torn a plank off the bed boards in the cell and was using it as a lever to force the iron bars of the gate of the cell. His effort, however, was of no avail.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney.

There is nothing more interesting in the game of bridge than a real playing problem and so many good hands go wrong simply because a player, rather than think for himself, will follow the beaten path.

The following hand presents a most unusual playing problem—not a difficult one—but before reading the solution, I am going to ask you to lay the cards out, study the hand carefully and decide how you would play it for six odd at spades.

Remember, if you are not careful, you will not make your contract.

The Bidding.

The bidding would be South one spade, West pass, North three hearts—a jump overcall. This is a game demand bid and requires partner to keep the bidding open until a game is arrived at. In response to the three hearts, South should bid three spades to show a solid spade suit. He need not be afraid that the bidding will die, as partner is forced to bid again.

North should now bid five spades. South will then show support in hearts by bidding six hearts, and North should take the contract to six spades.

The Play.

West would open either the eight of spades or a heart—perhaps the ten of hearts would be selected in the majority of cases. The trick would be won by South the declarer with the queen.

Three rounds of trump should be taken by the declarer, leaving the ace of trump in dummy. It looks as if the natural way to play the hand now is to lead the jack of hearts and then play a small heart to dummy's king.

Would you lead the ace of hearts and discard either the queen of clubs or the ten of diamonds? If so, your small slam contract would be defeated. South does not know which finesse to take, but he does know that West is out of spades and also out of hearts, so the proper play would be the four of diamonds from dummy, and finesse the ten which West would win with the jack. And now you can see that West is helpless—he must lead either a club or diamond, either of which would be right into the declarer's ace queen—the other queen can be discarded on the good ace of hearts.

The reason the declarer should not cash his ace of hearts before taking the diamond finesse is because he does not know which suit to discard. By throwing West in the lead, he solves this problem very easily.

OBITUARY

PORTUGUESE LADY OF WELL-KNOWN FAMILY

We regret to report the death of Mrs. Guilhermina Francisca dos Remedios Romano, who passed away at the age of 83 years, at her residence, No. 5, Austin Avenue, Kowloon, yesterday forenoon. The deceased was an outstanding member of the Portuguese community, and was the widow of the late Mr. Augustinho Guilhermo Romano, who for many years had been the Consul General for Portugal and Brazil in Hongkong. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. Joao Joaquim dos Remedios, who in the early days of the Colony took a leading part in commercial life here, being the senior partner of the merchant firm of J. J. dos Remedios and Company.

Mrs. Romano's father was amongst the earliest Portuguese settlers in the Colony, and was so confident of the growth and the commercial possibilities of Hongkong that he became a pioneer investor in landed property, being the first owner of the farm lot of Pokfulam, which has since been enlarged into a large tract of grazing ground now owned by the Dairy Farm Company.

The late Mr. Remedios was also a keen amateur horticulturist, and his taste for gardening was shared by his son-in-law, the late Mr. A. G. Romano, who helped to develop the farm lot at Pokfulam into an experimental garden for European vegetables and flowers.

By all residents Mr. and Mrs. Romano will be remembered as keen supporters of the Hongkong flower shows, and some of the finest exhibits at these annual functions, which in those days were the occasion of pleasant social gatherings, were their contributions.

As the wife of the Portuguese Consul General, Mrs. Romano, while the embodiment of modesty, played the part of an ideal hostess in their unique residence, then known as "Duart," at the junction of Arbutnot and Caine Roads, just below the Catholic Cathedral in Glencally. Her hospitality while lavish was unassuming. No guest at the luxurious consular residence left without a sense of pleasure and enjoyment.

The late Mr. Romano acted as Consular representative of Portugal in Hongkong for many years. He was elected President of the Club Lusitano, and many were the occasions that older residents recall of the important part which Mrs. Romano played on all occasions of social and national gatherings in the fine club building, when she entertained hundreds of guests.

After the death of her husband, the late Mrs. Romano retired into private life, devoting most of her time and private means to works of charity, and quiet benevolence which she dispensed unostentatiously for the benefit of her less favoured fellow beings. She had always a kind word for those in distress, and who had occasion to appeal to her for help, and she never let anyone, whether members of her own community or outside it, appeal to her in vain. Hers was truly a kind heart moved by a sentiment of benevolence and goodwill, which gained for her the admiration and respect of all who knew her in the heyday of her husband's prosperity.

Catholic charitable institutions of Hongkong lose in Mrs. Romano their best friend. She used to be a frequent visitor to the convents, in particular the Italian Convent, and at all functions in aid of the poor she was present, either to grace a stall at a bazaar or to dispense charity in a light way unknown to any except those who actually benefited by her spirit of generosity. Her loss will be truly felt, and by none more than the poor whom she befriended in many more ways than one.

She leaves a younger sister to mourn her loss, Mrs. G. N. E. Machado, the mother-in-law of Mr. A. A. Alves, who is so well known in Hongkong. Three other

CLAIM FOR BALANCE DUE, ON GOODS.

KELLER, KERN AND CO. WIN
$769 ACTION

In the Supreme Court yesterday, before the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice Wood, Messrs. Keller, Kern and Company, merchants, sued the Hind Provision Store, of Kowloon, for $769, balance due on milk sold and delivered.

Mr. E. C. E. Rendall of Russ and Company opened the case for the defendant. He explained that his client asked to be relieved of the milk because it appeared to be in a bad condition. In addition, it came in large tins and there were no labels to show that it was "Anchor" brand. When plaintiff was cross-examined by Mr. G. S. Hugh-Jones, it was disclosed that the defence was a denial that the milk was tainted, and the production of the contract which did not stipulate any particular brand. Mr. Hugh-Jones claimed that the quality was admitted by the acceptance of the goods and the payment of instalments.

After a hearing lasting three hours, judgment was given for the plaintiffs for the full amount claimed, with costs.

relatives survive her, namely Madame Leiria, Mrs. E. L. Rosario and Mrs. J. W. Loureiro, whose husband before his retirement from the Chinese Maritime Customs had been successively commissioner of Customs at Kowloon, Wuchow and Nanking.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Romano takes place this afternoon, the cortege passing the monument at 5.30 p.m.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

Cherry Dixon, pretty 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with Dan Phillips, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan and then, taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her. They are married and move into a cheap apartment. Cherry's struggles with housework are discouraging. Dixie Shannon, movie star of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome Max Peniston, also of the News.

After several weeks Cherry's mother becomes seriously ill. The girl is called home and there is a reconciliation with her parents but pride will not allow her to accept financial aid from them. When Mrs. Dixon is stronger she and her husband leave for several months at the seashore.

Cherry and Dan are invited to a swimming party at a nearby resort. Dan is delayed and Cherry starts with Peniston. A storm overtakes them and while they are waiting for it to pass he tells her he loves her. They finally reach home but after that Cherry needs Peniston.

Branda Vail, magazine writer, comes to Wellington. Dan meets her and she asks him to collaborate with her on a play. Dan spends most of his evenings at Miss Vail's apartment working on the play. Cherry follows Branda. She hears of from a dinner invitation, telling Dan to go without her.

CHAPTER XXXIX

Cherry stood looking out at the wet street. The rain had begun early in the morning, a steady downpour that threatened to continue throughout the night. It had rained every day of the week so far. October apparently was trying to masquerade as April but the wind was colder and the days were growing shorter. Now at 5:30 dusk was gathering and in half an hour the street would be in darkness.

A slight noise attracted the girl's attention. Cherry's exclamation was only half annoyance. Pinky, the kitten, had pushed the basket of socks and darning supplies to the edge of the window seat. It had fallen and the frightened kitten was in the midst of the deluge.

"Pinky!" the girl scolded. "I told you to leave those spools alone! Aren't you ashamed?"

The sentence went unfinished. There was a knock at the door and Cherry hurried to open it.

Dixie Shannon stood in the hallway in dripping raincoat, galoshes and limp felt hat. "Look at me!" she moaned. "My permanent's ruined! I had it put in only a week ago. Did you ever see such a sight? I couldn't get a taxi and I had to wait hours for a car. I'm simply soaking!"

"You certainly are!" Cherry agreed. "Come in and get that wet coat off."

Dixie struggled with the clumsy galoshes. "Might as well have left these at home," she grumbled. "Holes in both heels. Oh—what a day this has been! What a day!"

that had been protected from the moisture frizzed outlandishly. Dixie caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror and squealed in dismay. "What'll I do?" she exclaimed. "I look like a Hottentot!"

"Better get into dry clothes," Cherry suggested. "I'll see if I can get that wave for you if you want me to."

"You lamb! Will you really?"

Yes, but you'll have to take a hot bath first and put on something warm. Otherwise you'll have pneumonia!"

Dixie reached for her coat and hat. "I'll be right back," she promised. Almost at the door she stopped. "But I forgot—Dan will be coming."

"He's having dinner down town tonight," Cherry told her. "Slip into a bathrobe, Dixie, and come down and eat with me. Everything's ready and I was dreading the meal alone."

"Give me 10 minutes and I'll be here with bells on!"

It was a little more than that before Dixie returned. She pushed the door open, raised her tip-titting nose and sniffed appreciatively. "Food!" Dixie announced. "And such food!"

The table had been drawn out and places laid for two. The odors of baked pork chops, fresh vegetables and muffins mingled appetizingly. Cherry was pouring water into amber tumblers.

"Everything's ready," she announced.

"And does it look good! Cherry, you're a genius, that's what you are. I've never heard of anyone who could learn to cook the way you have in such a short time. Here I've been struggling with a frying pan for years—and what does it get me?"

Dixie wore a green and white striped bathrobe that apparently had shrunk. She wore floppy blue satin mules on her feet and black lace hose. Her bobbed hair, partly dry now, looked more than ever like the exaggerated coiffure of a Fifth Avenue princess.

Cherry glanced at her and laughed. "You did wreck that permanent!" she said. "I'm no professional but I think I can promise a little improvement!"

"It cost $7.50," Dixie announced dolefully. "And I thought it was going to make me look like Joan Crawford. Well—there's no use crying over a rolling stone—or whatever it is they say. Looking at those pork chops makes me feel a lot better even if my beauty is ruined."

They were sitting at the table now and Cherry served the plates. Dixie broke open a steaming muffin and the golden butter melted as it touched the bread.

"Dan Phillips is missing an elegant dinner if anyone should ask me," Dixie said. "By the way, what's Dan doing? Working on that play of his?"

Cherry shook her head. "No. Dan's at the office. He said he had a lot of extra work and wanted to stay until it was finished."

"At the office?" The other girl looked up. For an instant she seemed about to speak but then her eyes lowered.

"Didn't you see him there?" Cherry asked.

"Why—oh, yes, he was there when I left. There was another pause and Dixie broke it to say, 'Umm! These muffins are marvelous. If I could bake muffins like this one I'd be the proudest person in the world!'"

"You can have the recipe," Cherry told her. "They're awfully simple to stir up."

At the other side of the room Pinky, the kitten, was playing with a rubber ball. He gave the ball a smart slap and it went rolling across the floor. Pinky flew after it.

Cherry looked at the kitten. She said, "I'm glad you stopped in tonight, Dixie. Pinky's been the only company I've had all day. It's lonesome here when it's so dark and gloomy outside."

"Well, it was a break for me to walk into a meal like this," Dixie assured her heartily. "Don't know when I've had such food!"

"I wish I had a job like you have," Cherry went on. "I wish I could write or draw or know shorthand. I've always wanted to do something worth while."

"Say—what could be more worth while than cooking a meal like this?"

Cherry shrugged, but her smile was wistful.

"How's Dan's play coming?" the other girl asked.

"It's been finished and now they're writing the second act over again. It seems to take an awfully long time to write a play. I had no idea it was so much work."

Dixie glanced up and the lids of her eyes narrowed. "What do you think of this Branda Vail?" she asked. "Do you like her?"

Cherry hesitated. "Dan says she's awfully clever," she said slowly.

"Yes, of course, but what do you think of her?"

"I don't think I know her well enough to say. I've only met her a few times."

"Dan sees her rather often, doesn't he?"

"Why, of course. They've been working together for weeks."

"She's—rather unusual looking, don't you think?" Dixie persisted. "Not pretty exactly but the type a lot of men fall for. That red hair and the way she dresses. I've only seen her at a distance but I've heard them talking about her at the office. There aren't many wives

New York, Sept. 13.
New York Yankees to-day won the American League pennant by defeating Cleveland by nine runs to three. It was their hundredth victory of the season as against forty-three defeats and although eleven matches remain on their fixture list, they can afford to lose every one of them and still finish above their nearest rivals, last year's champions, the Athletics.
McCarthy, the manager of the Yankees, is the first manager to win both major league pennants. He carried the Chicago Cubs to victory in the National League when he was their manager in 1929.

It is the seventh occasion since the war that the Yankees have won the American League pennant. In the National to-day, Pittsburgh got a shock, being blanked by Boston, for whom Brandt was pitching. Berger hit for the circuit and then another Urbanki home run completed their discomfiture.

Brooklyn scored a double victory over the Cards, the first taking them into innings, while home runs by Hartnett, Root and Moore failed to give Chicago more than one game in their double header with the Giants.

Other home run hitters were Klein (Phillies), Campbell (St. Louis Browns) and Johnson (Boston Red Sox).

LOOK! WHAT HAPPENED HERE

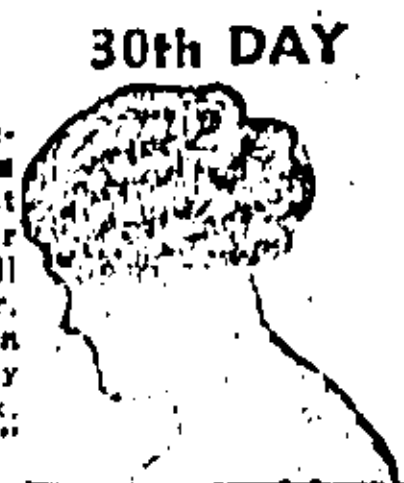

1st DAY
(The original letter from Miss O. B. New Cross, B.E. 14, may be seen at our office.)
"Before using your Electric Comb my hair was very thin, straight, and dull."

7th DAY
"After 7 days there was a remarkable difference. The bald patch was entirely covered with new young hair. The rest took on a most brilliant colour and was much thicker."

30th DAY
"I'd used your Electric Comb for 4 weeks when I had this last photo taken. My hair is healthy, thick, full of light and colour, and has taken on a natural wave. I only used it twice a week, it grows so quickly."

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

THAT TOUCH OF SILVER.

The last few years have seen a definite departure from the cult of the old to the development of the essentially modern in decoration and furnishing. Now, to match this, modern designs in silver—table silver, bowls, tea and coffee sets, cigarette boxes, inkstands, bookends, and cups—have been produced.

Many examples of this work of our modern craftsmen were to be seen at a remarkably interesting exhibition held recently at the Goldsmiths and Silver-Smiths Company, 112, Regent-street.

Perhaps the most fascinating exhibit from a woman's point of view was a table arranged for dinner. Each place was set with a different design in spoons, forks and knives. These designs have come into being within the last few months.

The table itself was a new design treated with gold-leaf overlaid with plate-glass inlay. The modern silver rose-bowl, sets for salt, pepper and mustard, and the forks and spoons caught the reflection of the gold and the two blended in a harmony of light that was most charming.

Almost all the new spoons, forks and knives had very long handles. The blades of the knives were much shorter than in the old patterns.

Another new idea was the adaptation of the handles of the knives to match exactly the handles of the spoons and forks.

Among the exhibits were some fine silver and gold work that are likely to be of great future historic interest. There was a silver bowl belonging to Princess Elizabeth. It had ivory handles, and the lid had a handle of gold and ivory made in the shape of a crown. The silver key designed by the architects of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre and used by the Prince of Wales for the opening, was loaned by the Prince for the Exhibition.

VENETIA in Exchange.

This new ermine capelet, short in front and ending in points below the waist in the back, leaves one wondering whether the wearer is coming or going. The collar, which fastens in the back, comes up high under the chin. It was worn with a cotton evening gown.

For late summer wear rough weave rayon which uses a checked drop-stitch effect is as cool as it is practical.

The skirt flares slightly and the bodice is characterized by the new drop shoulder, which features a V-shaped neck. A belt of twisted cord sets off a V-shaped neck. Not only the dress, but the bag, too, is of a synthetic material. Soft, pliable and glistening, it is made of cellophane.

FIGURE QUESTIONS.

By Ann Moresby.

Features are not easy things to alter. You need a deep purse, a strong faith in plastic surgery, and a fixed determination to improve upon nature before you do anything about them.

Although perfect proportions are admittedly very rare indeed, the figure which cannot possibly be improved by one reasonable process or another is also very rare.

There are hundreds of ways by means of which you can take off weight, if necessary. Some of them are guaranteed to take years off your life as well (though not by the people who advise them). But there are several perfectly sound methods of weight reduction which also improve the general health considerably.

The too-thin and weedy type of figure is also far more susceptible to improvement than its owner is usually ready to believe.

In a great many cases both the too thin and the too fat owe their disabilities to the same cause, a digestive apparatus which is not doing its work properly. When this is put right the rest is comparatively easy.

Skilled manipulative massage works wonders, and after a course of this the patient should be able to keep well and increase her figure loveliness by a reasonable though not too rigid diet, and reasonable though not too strenuous exercise.

Importance of Digestion.

There are several systems of exercise, and the question of which to choose depends partly upon the kind of fault it is desirable to correct and partly upon the kind of temperament possessed by the patient.

People who never succeed in doing exercises regularly and all by themselves, and who are not noted for their abounding energy will find the system, by which someone else does all the exercise, ideal.

The patient lies on rugs and cushions while trained assistants exercise her legs, and, if necessary, arms. The reduction in inches, produced by a course of these treatments is really astonishing, and by no means the least valuable thing about them is that they do not upset the heart or the blood pressure.

For the more energetic there are innumerable exercises from which to choose the ones she is most in need of.

Exercise Better than Diet.

It is nearly always wise to have a few lessons first, for purposes of diagnosis and observation, and because many people learn more in half an hour's demonstration than by the reading of many books.

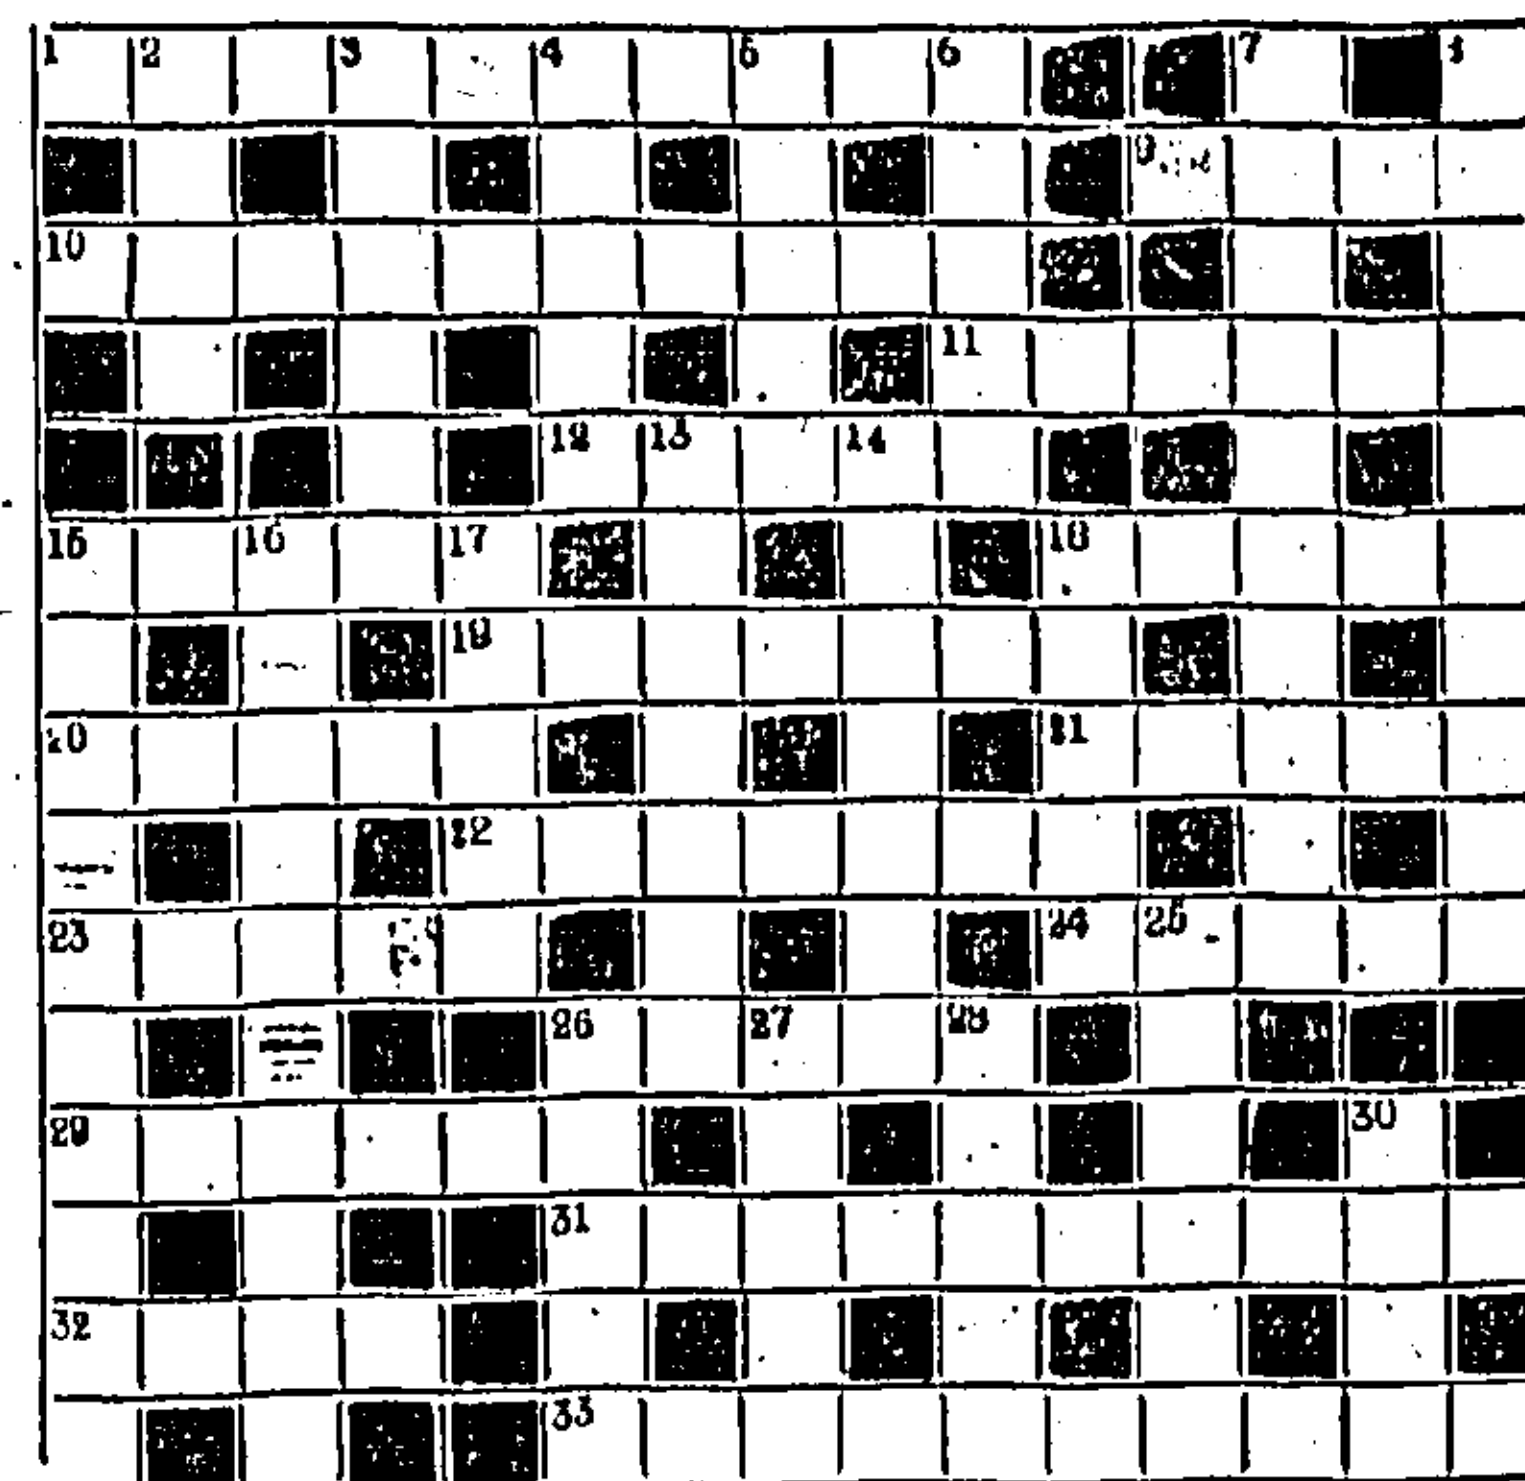

A reasonable diet which is adapted to individual needs does no one any harm, and most people a great deal of good. But diet without exercise is neither so quick nor so agreeable in its results. Starvation diets are often dangerous, and invariably bad for the disposition. Also, they nearly always reduce the face and the neck to haziness before they begin to affect the body.

Properly applied exercise on the other hand, reduces where you want it to reduce, instead of where you don't, and this whether you do it yourself or have it done for you.

AEROPLANE LIGHTER.

A silver model of an aeroplane provides an excellent and decorative cigarette lighter for standing on a table. The lighter is worked by electricity, and one has only to twist the small propeller of the plane to produce a flame by which to light a cigarette.

Gandhi's sincerity notwithstanding, few disinterested observers will find themselves in sympathy with the methods which he adopts in attempts to get his own way. His latest plan, to "fast unto death," in the hope that the British Government may abandon or modify its plans for a settlement of the communal problem, is such as one might expect from this strangely unbalanced personality. It is, indeed, pathetic. In effect, Gandhi seeks to dictate to the Government by the process of making a martyr of himself: in the one balance he places his life; in the other, the proposals which have been devised to settle an issue which the Indians themselves failed to adjust. No doubt he hopes in this way, provided his fasting ends fatally, to lay the blame for his death at the doors of the British Government. Needless to say, no Government could agree to bargain with anyone on such terms. If the worst comes to the worst, then Gandhi will have only himself to blame for deliberately choosing such a fantastic method of seeking to impose his will on the Government.

There is no occasion at the moment to investigate the point as to whether the Government's solution of the communal problem is or is not a remedy for the crushing degradation under which the Depressed Classes exist, except to observe that the British plan is specifically devised to safeguard their rights and interests and to give them a direct voice in the government of the country. Gandhi may have his own ideas on the method chosen by the British Government for alleviating the lot of the "Untouchables," but neither he nor anyone else can doubt British sincerity on behalf of a section of the community which has so long occupied a position of inferiority in the Indian caste system. The main fact to be kept in mind, however, is that it is the failure of the Indians themselves to solve this complex communal issue which has made it necessary for the British Government to bring forward its own proposals. In this connexion, it must be recalled that Gandhi himself, at the Round Table Conference and since, has deliberately refused to compromise with the Depressed Classes. With remarkable patience and restraint, the British Government endeavoured to follow the policy of inducing India to settle her own dispute, but the irreconcilables, prominent amongst whom has been Gandhi himself, would have none of it. All through the piece, Gandhi has studiously and perversely repudiated every suggestion put forward by the British and Indian Governments, and now he girds at the offered solution of an entanglement which is largely his own creation. Having led India into an almost inextricable maze of inconsequence, he calmly turns round and blames the British for not leading him out of it in the precise manner which he would like. In circumstances such as these, despite the tragic nature of his latest threat, it is difficult to feel any sympathy for the Mahatma, who has brought so much trouble on his own head. Gandhi and his followers have never tired of suggesting a sinister policy on the part of Britain to "divide and rule" in India. It has long since been clear, however, that the division is no Machiavellian creation, but a thing innate in Indian society. The breakdown of the Round Table Conference was only a further proof of that fact. Faced with what appeared to be an almost insoluble problem, Britain has intervened and taken the middle course of moderation and conciliation. Almost inevitably, no-one is really satisfied, but, as we have remarked, Britain's bona fides are beyond question. Whatever adjustments may be necessary to meet reasonable objections, there can at any rate be no question of permitting Gandhi, by fanciful methods of his own choosing, to dictate the Government's policies.

Translations, Please!

Ambitious people—people who like to do things that have never been done before—should be grateful for the continued existence of Shrewsbury School and its motto, to which attention has just been drawn by the recent anniversary celebrations. It is becoming increasingly difficult to accomplish any feat that has not been already achieved by someone or other, whether in exploration, sports or flight. But one of those rare remaining spurs to the ambition to do something different is provided by Shrewsbury School. And this particular feat has the merit of requiring no elaborate apparatus—not even a cricket bat, certainly nothing like an arm-chair—that is, if it can be done at all. In fact, all that the searcher after enduring fame has to do is to translate the motto of the school. It is a short motto; it is Latin, which large numbers of people understand almost as well as they understand English; and every one of its five words—"Intus si recte, ne labora"—is of perfectly definite and simple meaning. What each of those words means separately a child who is hardly through his first grammar could tell without difficulty; but what they mean when put together has baffled the ingenuity of succeeding generations of scholars. No one, as The Times, has pointed out, has ever been able to translate them satisfactorily or with certainty. From time to time, of course, suggestions have been put forward as to what the motto can mean. One version runs, "If thou art upright within, vex not thyself." Another, on a slightly less exalted note, is "If you enjoy your food, don't worry." A third seems still less suitable to a school, for it reads, "Once inside these walls, you need do no work." But none of these is really satisfactory. The world is still waiting for the perfect translation.

Minor injuries were received by Lok Sui-man, an engineer of the steam launch Lam Cheong Wan, when a steam pipe burst on board yesterday whilst the launch was lying off Shamshuipo.

The speaker for the next meeting of the Y's Men's Club of Hongkong, on Thursday, the 15th, at Lane Crawford's will be the Rev. G. T. Wadsworth, M.A., who will give a talk on "The Boy Scouts of Hongkong."

During a scuffle in Chinese Street, at 3 o'clock this morning, with a man whom he was trying to arrest as a suspicious character, Constable Kwong Sau received a wound on the shoulder inflicted with a chopper which the man was carrying. The injury, however, was not serious, although the constable was taken to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment.

At the fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board held yesterday, the business transacted was purely of a formal nature. Mr. G. R. Snyder, the President, was in the chair, and others present were the Hon. Mr. H. M. Henderson, Vice-President, Dr. G. W. Pope, M. O. H., Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. L. C. P. Bellamy, Dr. Li Shu-fan, Mr. C. Champkin, Mr. J. H. Gelling, Secretary, and Mr. Ng Mui-kai, Assistant Secretary.

During the week ended Saturday, September 10, five cases of Cholera with four deaths, (one imported) were reported. Of the cholera cases two were from Victoria and three from Kowloon. There were also three cases of typhoid with one death, one case of paratyphoid and one death, and three cases of meningitis with 11 deaths (one imported case). Deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis during the week totalled sixty. On Monday there was a clean bill of health.

An interesting and instructive talk on "Travelling through Szechuen" was given by Professor L. Forster, of the University of Hongkong, at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday. The Hon. Mr. S. W. Tse presided. The Rotarian T. B. Wilson, who recently returned from the Rotarian Conference at Seattle, at which he represented Hongkong, was welcomed back by the chairman. Mr. Wilson said he had done his best at the conference to convince the delegates from all parts of the world that Hongkong was not a Chinese city, but he did not have much success!

LOST IN THE ALPHABETICAL WILDS

(By Edward Kelly, K.B., Failed B.A. (Oxon), H2S04.)

Our American friend came to catch the atmosphere of the East. We took him immediately to the Central Market. He was also interested in Chinese still life, but after he had seen the Vehicular Ferry, Morrison Hill, the Shing Mun dam and other monuments to Governmental activity, we were hard pressed for other diversions. We had taken him for all the motor-rides in the Colony, and he said he enjoyed both of them and it was only when our ingenuity and his money had run out that he accompanied us to a short business visit to Seven and Sixpenny Hill.

"Yes," we said, in answer to his interrogatively raised eyebrow. "It is a funny name. 'Tis a relic of the old days when Queen's Road was paved with hotels. A trip from the old Coronet Theatre to Military H. Q. would cost 7s. 6d., gin being 9d. in those days. We are now passing the only hotel that remains."

"Why?" was his only reply. A belted and spurred myrmidon hailed us at the foot of the hill. "We want to know," we began, "if it is true that the K.O.S.B. will replace either the S.W.B. or the A. and S.H."

"R," he replied. "See the D.A.A. & Q.M.G." Up the hill, bear to the left, pick up an interpreter and ask the A. & S. H. orderly."

A black notice board stands halfway up Seven and Sixpenny Hill. "Eureka," exclaimed our American friend. "That was Archimedes, not Euclid," we replied, "and anyhow, 'tis not an algebraic problem: 'tis a directory of the H. Q. for the information of the general public. Or so we were told."

Such is regimental alacrity that we had smoked only half of our tin of Capstan magnams before the great man appeared.

"Are you the D.A.A. and Q.M.G.?" we began. "We want to know if the K.O.S.B. will replace either the S.W.B. or A. and S.H." "R," he replied. "The man you want is the O.I.C. (2) of S. and T."

We were used to it by this, and ran the O.I.C. (2) of S. and T. to earth in half an hour. "The D.A.A. and Q.M.G. said you could tell us if the K.O.S.B. etc.," we repeated.

"R," he replied. "The man you want is the A.F.A. and A.L.A., to the D. of the P.U.S. of S. for W." "Call him wheelbarrow for short," our American friend suggested.

"Wheelbarrow" was most obliging. "The man you want is the— But we stopped him.

By this time we'd entered into the spirit of the game, and we were just brushing up our table-d'armoire brand of French, when we arrived at the kill, who did his best to hide his title beneath a mass of alphabetical camouflage. He, at least, did admit that he was acquainted with the peculiarities of the K.O.S.B. "But," he said, "This is where I must give the proverbial imitation of an oyster."

"Well," we replied. "You certainly have the looks on your side," which, we thought afterwards, was rather cruel, as he might easily have referred us to the K.C.C., the K.B.S.F.P.A., or even the Y.M.C.A., and by this time we'd have been none the wiser.

VOLUNTEERS OF THE AIR

By JOHN GILLAM.

Squadrons of the Auxiliary Air Force are now in camp at Home intensively training with the Regulars, in co-operation with the Divisions of the Territorial Army.

Often, in their mock warfare, the pilots fly by day right over the very buildings in which they work in civilian life. The following article describes the training to which these volunteers of the air have subjected themselves.

We are flying through a dark night, high above fields and villages, engrossed in the reading of air speed and wind direction instruments.

We approach our target, a large factory on the outskirts of a country town. Our pilot adjusts direction as the air gunner calls instructions through the speaking tube. A bomb is released; a few seconds later a black spot halts near our objective.

"Once more, please," says the instructor, and I jump clear of the machine—six feet to the floor below.

It is the headquarters of an Auxiliary Air Force Bombing Squadron. We are in a darkened room, and stretched out across the floor is a white canvas sheet, on to which there is focussed, through a lens piercing the ceiling, a slowly moving panorama of the countryside.

Against the wall there is placed a stand of two tiers, representing a bombing aeroplane. On the lower tier sits the officer, controlling by his rudder the mechanism, fixed in the room above, which moves the mosaic of photographic plates at will. Above him is the air gunner, with his instruments at hand and beside him a glass plate silhouetting the shadow of a fixed black spot—the bomb. According to the reading of the instruments, set beforehand at the instructor's decision, the air gunner guides the pilot on the make-believe flight.

I leave them at their efforts towards a direct hit. At the far end of the drill hall a group is assembled around an uncompleted Wapiti, equipped with its 400-h.p. Jupiter engine, engaged in practice at rigging.

In the fitters' room, mechanics, at their benches and lathes, are assembling engines. In the armoury adjoining the make-up of machine guns and bombs is being thoroughly studied.

An N.C.O. now rounds everybody up for parade in the drill hall. The sharp command of "Fall in!" from the sergeant-major instantly transforms the scene to a parade of four flights, each of two ranks. As the adjutant and the officer taking the parade appear they click heels to immobility on the command "Attention!" and are marched smartly to and fro in various formations. Then they dismiss for the lighter side of the evening, a game of cards, or a committee meeting to discuss plans for a coming dance or concert.

To-morrow, with the exception of the adjutant, his assistant, and the sergeant-major, and a few special instructors (all Regulars), they will be back in their various walks of civilian life; the men in factories, engineering works, stores, banks, offices; the officers in the Law Courts, professional or business offices, or at the daily round of medical practice.

During the summer, evenings are reserved for practice flying. In the hangars of the three auxiliary squadrons at the aerodrome mechanics are overhauling aeroplanes. Outside the propellers of machines grouped in flights are gently ticking over. They taxi to position, assisted by an airman holding each wing tip, for the wind is a trifle bumpy, and rise with uniform grace in a steep ascent, each machine with its crew of pilot and air gunner. A new officer is taken up in an Avro for early lessons in flying.

I go to the camera obscura a hut of two rooms. One is equipped with wireless; the other darkened, with a camera lens fixed in the roof, focusing upwards, and embracing a wide range. On a cross-lined chart, spread wide over a table, I see the outline of a machine moving over its squares. It is picked up on the wireless; a pencilled line is marked, tracing the path of the aircraft, and instruments calculate where the bomb would have dropped.

BACK TO WORK

"Gee, you can't get much in the way of fashion magazines in this town."

LAST BALL BOWLED

YORKSHIRE PLAY THE REST

FINAL AVERAGES

London, Sept. 13.
The all-round brilliance of the county cricket champions, Yorkshire, was well demonstrated in the final match of the season, Champions v. Rest of England, which terminated to-day in a draw.

At the close of play, the Rest of England still required 84 runs to avoid an innings defeat and had lost four of their best wickets in their second innings, having been compelled to follow on.

Yorkshire compiled 376 runs on batting first, the most successful batsman being Mitchell, who contributed 97 to the total.

BOWLES' FEAT

The Rest replied with 183, Bowles taking 7 for 65. In their second innings they made 109 for 4 wickets.

Bowles' feat in the Rest's first innings apparently decided the M.C.C. selectors about his inclusion in the team to visit Australia. It was officially announced last night that he had been invited to accompany the team which is sailing on Saturday.

The final cricket averages reveal Sutcliffe far and away ahead of any of his rivals with an aggregate of 3,336 runs, the highest in his career, and an average of 74.11. The next biggest aggregate (2,528) is credited to Hammond and the next highest average was achieved by Ernest Tyldesley, who scored 2,420 runs averaging 59.02.

SUTCLIFFE'S FIGURES

Sutcliffe required a further 182 runs in order to equal the highest aggregate on record, obtained by Tom Hayward for Surrey in 1906. He also fell short by 16 runs of the second highest aggregate compiled by Frank Woolley (Kent) in 1928.

In the bowling line, Larwood returned brilliant figures, 162 wickets at a cost of 12.86 runs apiece, while Verity was but little less effective, his 162 wickets costing 13.88 runs each.

Ten of the M.C.C. team to tour Australia, five batsmen and five bowlers, appear in the first ten in their respective departments in the averages.

FINAL AVERAGES

The leaders in the final first-class averages follow:

HARBIN RAILWAY DANGERS

UNSAFE TO TRAVEL AT PRESENT

Information has been received by the Hongkong Government from the British Charge d'Affaires in Peking to the effect that it is inadvisable at present for British subjects to travel by rail on the Siberian route via Harbin. This advice has been rendered necessary owing to recent incidents in which bandits have interfered with the service.

During the night of the 10th-11th instant a train proceeding from Chungchun to Harbin was derailed and attacked by brigands. Ten people were killed and 16 wounded, while 60 received minor injuries. Communication between Harbin and Manchuli is still suspended.

On the eastern branch of the C.E.R., at 5 a.m. on the 11th instant, a train was fired on by brigands, two persons being killed and 25 wounded.

The body of a woman named Chan Wal-hung, aged 24, of 21, Old Bailey, was removed to the Public Mortuary yesterday after it had been found hanging by a piece of cloth in the house. A note was found containing an intimation that the deceased intended to commit suicide.

COTTON DISPUTE CONFERENCE

EMPLOYERS AND MEN MEET

London, Sept. 13.
At a Conference of employers and employees of the Lancashire cotton industry to-day Mr. F. W. Leggett, Conciliation Officer of the Ministry of Labour, who presided, gave a detailed explanation of the letter addressed to both sides several days ago by Sir Henry Betterton, Minister of Labour.

The Conference appointed a committee of five representatives from each side to draw up a plan of procedure, and adjourned till to-morrow, leaving a sub-committee of ten in session.

It is understood that the sub-committee discussed the question of reinstatement and is expected to present a report to-morrow. —British Wireless.

GODOWN THEFT SEQUEL

THREE COOLIES IN THE DOCK

Three coolies were brought before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of the theft of 14 rolls of cloth, valued at $1,400, the property of the Kowloon Godown Company.

Inspector Elston, who prosecuted, told his Worship that the police received information at midnight on September 9 that someone had broken into the godowns. Some men were rushed to the place and on arrival they found the first defendant standing by a window with 14 rolls of cloth beside him. The window had been broken sufficiently to allow one roll of cloth to be passed through.

When arrested, the first defendant said he was standing by the window to wait for the signal of the second and third defendants before lowering the rolls of cloth. The police went in search of these two men and found them about 200 yards away from the godowns. There was no evidence against them at all, except the word of the first defendant.

Enquiries made later revealed that the first defendant had hidden himself inside the godowns when the gates were closed, and during the night had opened two cases of cloth. He was ready to lower the cloth into the street when the police arrived.

His Worship passed sentence of six months' hard labour on the first defendant and discharged the other two.

A CHARITY CONCERT.

A concert which is being organised in aid of the funds of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, will take place in the Great Hall at King's College on October 8. The programme promises to be exceptionally good, including selections by the Welsh Choir of the South Wales Borderers, songs by Mrs. R. Sanger, Mr. Li Chor-chi and others, Mr. Ronald True at the piano, and a play in English by Chinese students, entitled "The Astrologer."

The proceeds will be devoted to the maternity centres maintained by the Brigade, particularly to the recently opened centre at Cheung Chau, which is rendering a great service to the islanders, having been working at capacity since its inauguration. With such a worthy object in view, the organisers anticipate generous support. Tickets, which will be $3, $2 and $1, will be on sale shortly.

HONGKONG DOLLAR DECLINES

MARKED FALL IN SILVER

A sharp drop in silver prices in London was partially reflected in the value of the Hongkong dollar this morning, the rate falling 1/8th to 1s. 3.7/8d. The undertone of the local market is still easy, with the outlook uncertain.

In London, silver dropped a halfpenny. China and India sold, and speculators bought. After the official fixing, the market was uncertain. It was considered that the fall was overdue, and American bought at the close.

New York reports silver down an eighth.

TRADE OPENINGS IN HONGKONG

That if New Zealand producers would take more notice of Chinese requirements, and label their goods in an attractive fashion as the Canadian and American exporters, they would find a ready market awaiting them in the East, was the opinion expressed by Mr. A. McKirdy, formerly of the Taikoo Sugar Refinery, Hongkong, in the course of a chat with a representative of The Press, of Christchurch, New Zealand, recently.

Mr. McKirdy is spending a few weeks of leisure in New Zealand, visiting old friends, but while in Wellington he met members of a syndicate who purpose opening up a tinned goods business with Hongkong and Shanghai, and he intends to give them all the assistance possible.

EXCELLENT CHANCE.

"During my recent stay in Wellington I was interviewed by representatives of a syndicate known as the Eastern Trade Development Company, which purposes opening up offices in Hongkong and Shanghai," said Mr. McKirdy. "It looks as if they mean business, and their intention is to export tinned meat and fruits, butter, and other things. I have been over the big stores in Hongkong, and while I saw large quantities of Australian and American tinned goods, there appeared to be nothing from New Zealand. There is no reason why New Zealand should not be represented. The American and Canadian labels are very attractive, and it only remains for New Zealand to fall into line in this respect."

"Actually New Zealand seems to be waking up to the fact that there are great possibilities in China for her tinned goods. From what I have seen, the Dominion has an excellent opportunity awaiting it in Hongkong and Shanghai," he said.

AUSTRALIA AND CHINA.

The natives of China were the hardest working natives in the world, said Mr. McKirdy, and their word was their bond. For Hongkong he has the greatest admiration, and the pride in the city of his adoption has not diminished since he retired from the sugar refinery trade there. The question of Hongkong as a likely market for New Zealand goods was well worthy of investigation, he said.

On the way to Australia he travelled with two Australian business men who had been in Hongkong for the purpose of developing trade there, and they had made what they considered a very good connexion in the city. One man, who dealt in flour, was well satisfied with the result of his trip, and was of opinion that good business would be done, provided his firm would make certain alterations to suit the new consumers. For instance, the Chinese liked to have their flour marked with the characters of his own language.

SHIPPING DIFFICULTIES.

One difficulty which the Australians met on their trip was that of shipping, there not being at the time, sufficient tonnage to carry all the goods that Australia could export to China. Again, if the Chinese and Japanese were to come to a complete agreement, Japanese goods would come back into the Chinese market, and the Japanese could undersell anyone else on account of their low costs of production. However, New Zealand and Australia should be able to flood a market for goods that were not exported by Japan, and Japan also needed those goods—meat and tinned foods, for instance.

The present was the time to open up potential markets and what was needed mainly was high-class salesmanship. His advice was for New Zealand producers to get into touch with the Hongkong Dairy Farm Cold Storage representatives.

Mr. McKirdy is leaving Sydney for China on September 24th.

TWO MEN ASSAULT WOMAN

An attack by two men on a woman led to the latter receiving serious injuries at the junction of Salkung Road and Customs Pass, Kowloon City, last night.

It is stated that the cause of the trouble was a dispute over a concubine, the outcome being that the two men assaulted the woman with a sharp instrument. She received wounds to both forearms, stomach and shoulder.

The victim of the attack was a married woman named Tsai Ng, 45, a resident of Sai Young Choi Street, Mongkok. In a statement to the police she says that while travelling on a bus to Kowloon City she observed two unknown Chinese cycling her suspiciously. When she got out from the bus and while passing Salkung Road she was attacked. It is alleged, by one of the two men with a dagger or knife. She raised an alarm and when discovered by pedestrians and police afterwards she was lying in a pool of blood. A small sum of money in her possession had not been touched.

The Empress of Japan arrived at Vancouver yesterday at 8 p.m.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL SENSATION

JACKSON LEAVES CHELSEA

FOR A CHESHIRE

TO TEST A THEORY

Alex Jackson, the famous
Scottish and Chelsea footballer,
who is on the Chelsea transfer
list, has been signed on by Ashton National, a Cheshire
League Club.

The Cheshire League in which Ashton National play is comparable with the London Combination. The club possesses an excellent ground and 5,000 gates are common.

The secretary of Ashton National, Mr. L. Burrows, said to a reporter: "We are trying to make a big effort this season and have already signed on Duncan Lin-day, the prominent Bury player,
and Norman Brown, of Stock-

most brilliant forwards in English football to-day. He has 17
international "caps," all gained
playing for Scotland.

£7,500 TRANSFER FEE.

A sensation was sprung on the
Chelsea Football Club announced
that they had decided not to offer
him re-engagement for the coming season, after securing him from Huddersfield two seasons previously at a transfer fee of £7,500.

"There is not the slightest possibility that Jackson will ever
play for us again," said Mr.
David Calderhead, the Chelsea secretary-manager. "We simply made up our minds that we would
not have him again."

The club offered no precise explanation for their action beyond
stating that Jackson had been guilty of a breach of training regulations.

Jackson, however, said, "I am
alleged to have broken training
regulations at Manchester by ordering drinks to be sent to my bedroom at the hotel. That is true. I admit the responsibility of ordering enough for one drink
per man after we had already had
one drink each."

AN EXPERIMENT.

Jackson has long held the opinion that a footballer should
be paid according to his ability
and power as a "gate" attraction.
In his new engagement, while he
is guaranteed a certain sum
every week, he will make a practical test of his ideas.

"I am going to Ashton National," he said "for a month as an experiment. I shall play in four home matches for a sum far greater than any League club
would pay, and further discussions will be based on the result of the experiment."

"The club approached me,
and I put it to them that I was invited to play for them
because of the 'gate appeal'.
They agreed. Then I suggested my payment should be
on the basis of 'gate appeal'.
Cricketers in Lancashire are paid that way—why not footballers?"

"A typically Scottish idea, it will be said. It is not Scottish;
it is common sense. I am in football because I like the game, but also to make my living, and, like all men, I want the most I can get from my job."

THE POSSIBILITIES.

"If there are any League clubs
who doubt my still being able to play up to the transfer fee that Chelsea want for my services,
here will be a first-class chance
to judge for themselves. But I tell you frankly that with the prospect of £8 as a maximum wage
in the League and unlimited possibilities when playing outside

NOT COMING TO HONGKONG

News has been received in the Colony that the All-India Hockey
Team, who won the world championship at the Olympic Games at Los Angeles, are not returning to India via Japan, Shanghai and Hongkong, as was originally intended, but
are proceeding to Europe, where they will meet Germany in a series
of matches.

All arrangements for the match
between Hongkong and the Indian team for Friday have now been cancelled.

TOKYO FOR 1940 OLYMPICS

AMERICAN FEELING IN FAVOUR

William May Garland, president
of the Los Angeles organizing committee which staged the Tenth Olympic Games just completed,
wants to see the Olympic torch
carried to Tokyo, Japan, in 1940.

Mr. Garland, who is one of America's three members on the International Olympic Committee,
said he would do all possible to aid the people of Japan to get the Twelfth Olympiad just as they
Tenth World Olympiad by their splendid support and co-operation.

"It will be a long distance for
some nations to travel, just as Los Angeles was a long journey from many parts of the world, but I believe the Japanese if given the opportunity will stage one of the most successful Olympic meets in history," he said.

"As Count Henri de Baillet
La Tour says, the International Olympic Committee cannot afford
to leave one part of the world
unaware of the Olympic ideal and I want to see the Olympic torch
carried from Berlin around the world into Tokyo in 1940."

"The Japanese in their appearances here have shown themselves
the finest sportsmen in the world
and they are rapidly becoming our finest competitors as well. Certainly they are among the best behaved. There are no finer results than the Japanese."

To the Japanese went the distinction of sending more experts,
as well as athletes, than any other country except the United States.

More than 100 Japanese received
press credentials and their output, at cable rates as high as
$3 per word, reached staggering proportions before the games. The flow was scheduled to be maintained while the big show lasted.

Japan entered the 1932 games
with the idea of making as impressive a demonstration as possible in every particular, designed to help influence the International Olympic committee to swing the 1940 Olympics to Tokyo.

The League—well, what would you
do?"

If the Jackson experiment is a success it may well appeal to other players. No one can blame
the player, but it may well prove a menace to Football League
clubs, and possibly result in a reconsideration of the maximum wage rule.

It should be made clear that this is not a Football Association
matter—Jackson is only going outside the scope of the Football League.

9 YEAR-OLD ENGLISH
BOY IMPRESSES

It is not often that a player
beaten 6—0, 6—0 in a lawn tennis
tournament commands any notice
or is regarded as anything else
but a "rabbit," but quite the reverse is the case with 'Little D.
Gordon, of La Villa School, Lausapine, who lost in the first round of the "under sixteen" event in the
schoolboys' championships at Queen's Club.

Gordon is only nine years old,
and a little taller than the net,
and as he was playing against a boy of over 14 who seemed twice
as tall he was expected to lose.
Gordon did not win a single game, yet he showed more promise than any boy in his section.
He served overhead, occasionally followed his service to the
net, his volleys were crisp if uncertain, and he was not afraid
to run about.

His style was easy and not forced. Indeed, Gordon has never had a lesson, but he has watched
a lot of lawn tennis, and from watching has learned how to make his top spin drives. For one so young and so small he had a lot
of power in his shots. He was beaten because his opponent was too tall and strong and knows how to play.

Of one thing that is certain—
Gordon is the best young player
for his age. He is not, perhaps,
a prodigy, but he certainly has
great promise.

GOVERNMENT DECIDES TO RETAIN OFFICE

Berlin, Sept. 13. The government has resolved to retain office, despite the disapproval of the Reichstag. Herr von Papen enjoys the full confidence of President Hindenburg, as shown by the fact that Hindenburg signed the decree of dissolution at his country home at Neudeck, leaving von Papen to act as he liked.

The Germans are debating whether the President of the Reichstag acted correctly in completing the vote of no-confidence before announcing the dissolution. The Nazis hold that Capt. Goering, Speaker, acted rightly.

Centrists think the dissolution will seriously harm Germany and should have been avoided while German nationalists defend von Papen, urging the nation to rally round Hindenburg. The Social Democrats accept the dissolution and the Communists demand Capt. Goering to convene the Reichstag to-morrow, but the request will probably be ignored.

It is expected that the elections will be held early in November, provided law and order is maintained.

who would be willing to let their husbands spend evening after evening with a vamp like that."

"Dixie, you don't want to suggest—"

"Heavens forbid! I don't mean to suggest a thing in the world. Of course I know Dan isn't the sort to play around with anyone else—even if it were harmless. I wouldn't say a thing like that for the world!"

The denial was a shade too vehement, and Dixie's smile a trifle forced but Cherry did not seem to notice this. She looked across at the other girl. Cherry's face had suddenly become serious.

"If anybody would dare to say things like that I hope you'll tell them it's not true," she said earnestly. "Dan wouldn't—he couldn't do anything except play fair. He knows I understand about Miss Vail. Dan admires her because of her ability and of course he's grateful for all the help she's given him."

"Of course, lamb! I know that's all there is to it. Nobody's been talking about your Dan and I was a dumbbell to suggest it. Matter of fact, I only meant Dan's exceptional because he is so level-headed. There now—is everything all right?"

They talked of other subjects.

Cherry brought the dessert and poured the coffee. Afterward they washed and wiped the dishes together and put the room to rights. Then Dixie sat before the mirror while Cherry dampened the frizzled, unruly hair and combed it painstakingly into neat waves. It was almost an hour's work but when it was finished Dixie was enthusiastic.

"It looks better than when they set it at the shop!" she insisted. "Honestly, I don't know how I can thank you—"

"There's nothing to thank me for," Cherry told her. "I didn't have anything else to do and it's been fun."

A little later Dixie departed. In her own apartment she hung away the raincoat that was dry now and tucked the galoshes out of sight. Dixie stood before the mirror for a moment inspecting her carefully waved locks. She was thinking of the girl down stairs.

"There's no use to tell her," Dixie informed the image in the looking glass. "It's better for her not to know but just the same it's a dirty shame! I'd like to tell Dan Phillips what I think of him!"

It was evident from the black

CHINESE LEAVES PROPERTY WORTH $36,000

Probate has been granted of the will of Wong Suen, late of No. 173, Queen's Road West, who died on December 18, 1931, leaving local estate to the value of $36,915.71.

The petition was entered by Wong Hing-king and Wong Cho-wing. Regarding Khoo Beng-chong, merchant, late of No. 74, Cross Street, Singapore, who died on January 10, 1932, application for grant of the resealing of letters of administration of the deceased has been granted to Cho Yin-kean.

In the estate of Lo Tze-kong, merchant, late of No. 39, Nam Ho Street, Canton, who died on April 17, 1932, grant of letters of administration has been given to Lo Ho-shi, widow, of No. 8, Nga Chin Wat Road, Kowloon City. The estate is valued at $12,000.

looks directed at the girl in the mirror that these remarks would not be complimentary. With a sigh Dixie turned away to pick up the mystery story she had begun the night before.

At the same time in the second floor apartment Dan Phillips yawned and discarded his vest. "Say, Cherry," he asked, "what's become of that yarn I wrote about the taxicab driver? The one I called 'Night Life'? Remember? I'd like to take it around for Brenda to have a look at."

Cherry's back was toward him. She did not turn as she answered. There was a pause, almost imperceptible, and then she said, "I'm sorry, Dan, but I destroyed it. I didn't mean to. It got in with some other papers and I didn't know until it was gone—"

The words were a deliberate falsehood. But of course Dan would never learn the truth!

HONGKONG COURT
JURISDICTION.CROWN'S RIGHTS IN CASE
ABOVE CIVIL ACTION

An important legal ruling was given by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon at the continued hearing of the Sze Yap S. S. Company embezzlement case, in reply to a submission by the defence that the criminal proceedings were debarred by reason of the amount in question having been included in a previous Civil Court judgment.

The accused, Tsui Wai-hing, described as a business agent of the Sze-Yap S. S. Co., was accused of converting to his own use $1,584, said to have been traced by six documents issued by Messrs.
Slemson of Canton. It was admitted however, that this amount had been included in a civil action for $3,354.08 previously successfully brought against the accused.

At an early stage of the present proceedings, the Company retracted and asked that the criminal charge be withdrawn, but this was refused by His Worship, who ordered that the documents be impounded and the charge proceeded with, with the Crown substituted for the Company in the role of prosecutor.

Mr. Leo D'Almada appeared for the defence. Mr. Prentice watched the case in the interests of Ng Jim-kai, the manager of the company.

Crown's Rights.

His Worship said that at the last hearing he adjourned the case to consider the points that Mr.
D'Almada had raised on the juradiction of the Court. He had consulted the authorities Mr.
D'Almada had placed before him then, and as Mr. D'Almada said, he found there was nowhere actual reference to it. But on reading what Mr. D'Almada had kindly lent to him, he thought he must rule against Mr. D'Almada on the grounds that the rights of the Crown in the criminal prosecution must not be interfered with, by any civil action of the individual in the other Court.

The case was then proceeded with, and resuming his cross-examination of Ng Jim-kai, the principal witness, at the point where he broke off to interpose his legal submission, Mr.
D'Almada asked—Has the action upon which you had obtained judgment in the other Court, been settled between the Company and the defendant?—There has been no settlement.

Was the whole action settled for $4,000?—I have not heard of that.
Have you been told of that?— No.

And you have not made any enquiries at all, is that right?—
don't know what has been decided.

Look here, Mr. Ng Jim-kai, you swore information here through your solicitors, is that right?—
Supposing there was a request, I would have no right to settle it except through a solicitor.

Heard of It.

Pressed, witness said there had been a request, but he was certain a settlement had not been made on that request.

Is it partially settled?—There is no question of any partial settlement. I had no authority to

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON.

VISIBLE AT HONGKONG IN EARLY MORNING

There will be an almost total eclipse of the moon to-night, the area obscured being .982 of the moon's disc. The eclipse will be visible at Hongkong in the early hours of to-morrow morning, provided there is no obscuration by clouds. The phases of the eclipse, and approximate Hongkong time, will be as follows:

Moon enters shadow 3.18 a.m., middle of eclipse 5 a.m., moon leaves shadow 6.43 a.m.

decide, for the reason that the accused approached someone else with his request.

Would you have a right to take that money if the defendant had come to you with $8,000?—I would also not have any right there.

You, as Chairman of the Board of Directors, must have been told of the payment or settlement of this particular matter?—I am not the Chairman.

Or a member of the Board?—I am a member, but if someone else had been approached, I would not have known. It was not I who was approached by the defendant on the matter.

Was the Board of Directors approached?—Perhaps, some of the members of the Board may have been consulted with.

And you know absolutely nothing, you say, if the Board of Directors had been communicated with? You as a member of that Board, would have been apprised of it?—Yes, I would have heard of that request.

Had Informed Solicitors.

The Magistrate interposing:
You say you have heard of that request; do you mean request for a settlement?—Yes.

Mr. D'Almada: So far as solicitors of the Company are concerned they receive instructions from you, is that right?

Mr. Prentice, interposing, asked for elucidation of the nature of the instructions alluded to by Mr. D'Almada.

His Worship said he understood
Mr. D'Almada to mean general instructions as issued by the Company to its solicitors.

Witness, in reply to the question, said "yes."

Mr. D'Almada: And on Friday week last, at any rate some time previous to Saturday last week, did you inform your solicitors that this present charge had been settled between the parties, that is settled between the Company and the defendant?—Yes. When I received such outside information I told the solicitors the matter had been settled.

Do you mean to suggest that as a member of the Board of Directors you would receive outside information and then told your solicitors that the matter had been settled? What do you mean by outside settlement?—Tsui Wai-hing, the defendant, had told others he had settled the matter with the Directors, and the information was passed on to me by the Superintendent of the Company,
Mr. Ma Chui-chiu.

Ma Chui-chiu is a member of the Board of Directors?—Yes.
He said that the defendant had sent a man whom he did not know and whose surname is Fan, to see Ma. I personally do not know Fan.

Did Ma tell you he had settled

REPLY TO SANITARY BOARD
RECOMMENDATION

The Sanitary Board have received a reply from the Government relative to the Board's recommendations regarding a better system of refuse removal. The communication is from the Colonial Secretary, and reads as follows:

I am directed to acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 20, 1932, forwarding a resolution regarding the removal of refuse which was adopted at a meeting of the Sanitary Board held on July 19, 1932.

In regard to the recommendations of the Board, I am to state:
(1) That in accordance with the practice of the Government new lorries when required will be of a modern and up-to-date pattern, and that the Government will be glad to know what pattern the Board recommends.

(2) None of the lorries have fixed covers: if fully loaded and if operating in a high wind or traversing some unevenness in the surface all are liable to drop a little material unless canvas covers, which are supplied to each, are securely fastened. But in point of fact it is understood that they very rarely do drop anything, and on these rare occasions it is at once picked up.

(3) The Government would be glad to receive the suggestions of the Board in regard to the review and revision of the existing hours of collection of refuse.

the matter with Fan?—He told me
the matter had been settled.

Defendant Discharged.

After a consultation in chambers with Mr. D'Almada and Mr.
Prentice, his Worship said that he understood Mr. Ng Jim-kai, the complainant, had a promissory note signed by the defendant in favour of the Sze Yap Company for $1,500 in settlement or part settlement of the moneys alleged to be due by him to them.

After remarking that he had been to some trouble in thrashing out the case his Worship thought that the actual truth of the matter was that the particular system adopted by Chinese business firms in the collection of their accounts led to a very natural confusion when the principles of British Law were applied to those accounts. He thought he would be wrong in applying the law too harshly in the present case.

His Worship made it quite clear that there had been no improper conduct on the part of anybody connected with the prosecution, remarking that he was satisfied that the complainant had no intent to impugn a felony.

His Worship again reiterated the warning that people had to be most careful not to employ the Criminal Court as a lever to extract a Civil right.

The defendant was accordingly discharged on the production of the promissory note.

CANADIAN SENSATION

ENORMOUS TRUST FUND LOSSES CERTAIN

MACHRAY CASE

ROYAL COMMISSION APPOINTED

Winnipeg, Sept. 13.

The sensational revelations of huge losses sustained by university and religious trust funds in Manitoba and Rupert's Land, followed by the arrest of Mr. John Machray, highly-respected lawyer and official, are to become the subject of an enquiry by a Royal Commission.

The announcement was made to-day by Mr. Bracken, the Provincial Prime Minister, who said that the Royal Commission is now in process of formation.

HUGE LOSS.

Its task will be to inquire searchingly into the disappearance of over a million dollars of the Endowment Funds of the University of Manitoba while under the Administration of Mr. Machray.

Mr. John Machray is over sixty years of age. He has been a leading figure in Canadian educational and religious circles over a considerable number of years and his arrest on a charge of embezzlement has come as a profound shock.

It is alleged that he embezzled at least $900,000 gold of the endowment funds of the University of Manitoba, and it is believed that he had much to do with the huge losses suffered by the Anglican Church in the Diocese of Rupert's Land.

BISHOPRIC VACANT.

The Committee of the Anglican Church is now arranging an exhaustive inquiry in respect of its loss of upwards of $81,000,000 from the church funds under Machray's administration, in consequence of which the election of a Bishop to the vacant See of Athabasca has been indefinitely

MR. CHURCHILL BETTER

BIG IMPROVEMENT REPORTED

London, Sept. 13.

A material improvement is reported from Salzburg, Austria, in the condition of Mr. Winston Churchill, who is in bed with a mild attack of paratyphoid fever.

It is alleged that he embezzled at least $900,000 gold of the endowment funds of the University of Manitoba, and it is believed that he had much to do with the huge losses suffered by the Anglican Church in the Diocese of Rupert's Land.

Mr. John Machray who besides being chairman of the Board of Governors and Bursar of the University of Manitoba, was also Chancellor of the Anglican Diocese of Rupert's Land.

He was too ill to appear in court when the case came on and bail was granted in the sum of $350,000.—Reuter.

LAND ANNUITIES DISPUTE

CONSIDERED

London, Sept. 13.

A further communication from Mr. de Valera, head of the Irish Free State Government, received to-day by the Dominions Office, concerning the Irish Land Annuities, was considered by the Prime Minister and Mr. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions.

It is understood that the Note repeats the suggestion made by Mr. de Valera in a speech two days ago, that, pending arbitration, the annuities be placed in the custody of a third party such as the Bank for International Settlements.—British Wireless.
